LEWIS WANTS SUBSIDY TO RAISE WAGES

Would Have Taxpayers Foot Bill For $2-a-Day Boost In Miners' Pay.

HITS LIVING COST RISE

Hard Coal Operators Reject Demands, Charge Increase Really $5.25 Daily.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) — Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, was reported today to have resigned from the war labor board in protest against WLB wage policies.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—A revolutionary proposal to meet wage increases had been put forward today by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Lewis suggested that the federal government subsidize the nation's hard coal industry if such action is necessary to absorb the pay raises he is demanding for the 90,000 workers in the anthracite field.

"The miners have got to eat," grimly declared Lewis, pointing out that the cost of living has been steadily rising.

The hard coal operators, who had rejected Lewis' wage demands as "impossible of fulfillment," maintained an attitude of dead silence toward Lewis' government-subsidy proposal.

Lewis and his scale committee had presented twenty one demands to the anthracite operators, including an increase of $2 a day in basic wage rates, time and one-half for overtime after thirty-five hours in any one week, and double time for Sundays.

Turning down Lewis' demands, the hard coal operators said they would amount to an average increase of $5.25 a day in wages rather than $2 a day. They contended that these demands, if granted, would mean an increase of 95.8 per cent in mine workers' wage rates since Jan. 1, 1941, including a 19.4 per cent increase already made to compensate for the increased cost of living.

Lewis, however, hit back at the operators' contention. He termed them "exaggerated" and insisted that an analytical breakdown would reduce to "less than half" the amount the operators claim the wage increases would cost.

Ralph E. Taggart, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, who presented

Calls Industrial Representatives To Garden Session

Frank A. Berkey, chairman of the Industrial Victory Garden committee, has called a meeting of plant representatives for 4 p. m. Monday in civilian defense headquarters, City Hall, at which time plans for co-ordinating plans of labor organizations will be made.

All industries not yet enrolled in the victory garden program are urged to have a representative at Monday's meeting. Those already pledged to supply ground and its preparation for their workers are the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, Ohio Brass company, Westinghouse, Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, Humphreyes Manufacturing company, Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company, Tappan Stove company, and the Great Lakes Steel company.

At a meeting late Friday, plans for expansion of garden plots were discussed with John W. Kullman who is serving the committee in an advisory capacity. In most instances, the industry will provide the land, plow it and otherwise prepare it for planting.

Several industries have indicated that the response to their program necessitates increased space to accommodate all the workers who are eager to grow their own vegetables for summer table use and for winter canning and preserving.

Labor organizations have been actively engaged in mobilizing their memberships behind the victory garden plan and joint meetings with the industrial committee are being planned for the very near future.

Biggest Ohio Expense Bill Passage Due

Action Seen Wednesday As Committee Makes 1 Per Cent Cut.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—The house of representatives probably will pass a $366,460,000 biennial appropriation bill next Wednesday, clearing its calendar of the most important bill of the session.

Speaker William M. McCulloch, R., Miami, praised the work of his finance committee and said the bill which pared $3,263,000 from the appropriations recommended by Governor Bricker represented the greatest cut in an executive budget in at least 10 years.

However, the measure represents an increase of $13,535,200 over the appropriation of the last legislature to run the state during 1941-42.

Most important factors in this increase, according to State Finance Director H. D. Defenbacher, were increased allowances for old age pensions and higher maintenance costs in state welfare institutions because of the increased cost of food and supplies.

Major cuts made in the governor's budget by the house finance committee were: A $1,000,000 reduction, or 50 per cent, in the funds to be allocated to local defense councils; a $1,000,000 reduction in the state poor relief fund from which local subdivisions are reimbursed for 50 per cent of their relief costs; and $1,300,000 was cut from the appropriation to the emergency board which in effect holds a reserve fund for adjustment of departmental expenses to cover unusual circumstances unforeseen by the legislature.

Other reductions included: $400,000 from the state liquor department appropriation for salary and travel; and $100,000 from the state defense council.

School appropriations which have been one of the knottiest problems of the session were resolved thus:

A $1,500,000 appropriation for school rehabilitation; the general program for aid to delinquent and improvished school districts was approved in a bill the senate passed recently.

A $1,202,662 appropriation to settle accumulated sundry claims against the state department of education on behalf of local school districts.

A $2,100,000 increase in the school foundation fund from which basic payments per pupil are made to local schools; $800,000 of this will be granted this year and the balance in 1943.

Moreover, instead of a change

LIMIT TO LIMIT

Legislators Want Expiration Date on Liquor Ration Bill.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Indications grew today that an expiration date may be tacked on to a liquor ration bill by the Ohio legislature in order to forestall possible postwar attemps to keep Ohioans on a limited supply of liquor.

Several legislators advanced the theory that the dry forces would be in position to exert pressure on the administration in order to keep a ration plan in effect even when the available supply increases unless an expiration date is carried in the bill.

Rep. Howard M. Metzenbaum, D., Cleveland, sponsor of the ration bill, agreed that an expiration date might be advantageous.

REFUSES FOOD

Woman Who Killed Three Babies Reads Philosophy.

DENVER — (U.P.) — Bernice Williams, blond career girl charged with first degree murder for the slaying of her three illegitimate babies, read Elbert Hubbard's philosophy in her cell today and refused to eat.

Authorities at the city jail disclosed that she has eaten nothing since she was arrested shortly after noon Thursday. Jailers, however, said she was not on a hunger strike, but merely was not hungry.

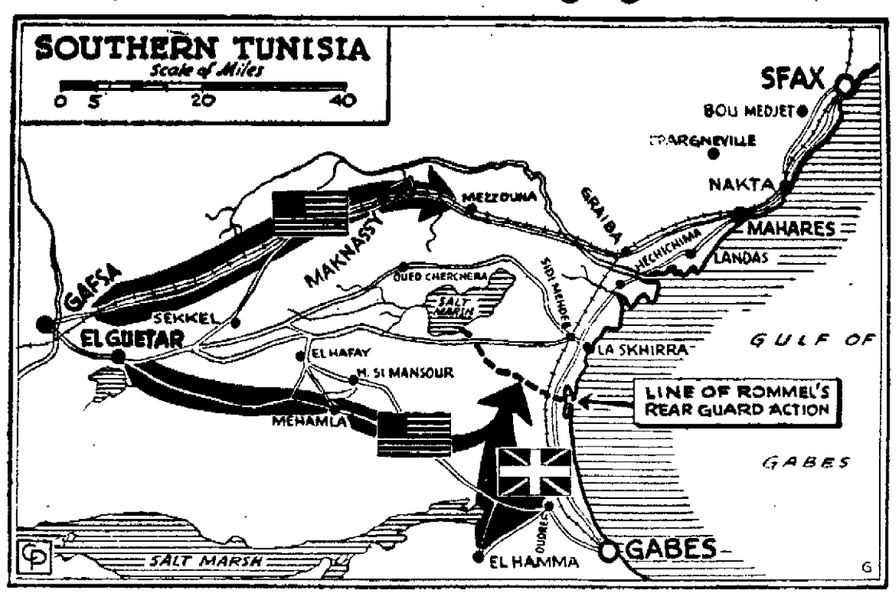
DOTTIE TO WED

Glorifier Of Sarong Will Marry Air Force Captain.

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Dorothy Lamour, who quit a Chicago elevator operator's job, became an actress and disclosed to the movie public what a little bit of tropical island sarong can do for an American girl's future, plans to wed soon for a second time.

She will marry Capt. William Ross Howard III of the army air forces as soon as he can obtain leave.

U. S., British Forces Converging on Tunisia



American and British forces unofficially have been reported converging in south-central Tunisia for the pursuit of Rommel's Africa corps up the coast as shown by the heavy arrows in the lower portion of the map at top. The other arrow indicates where American forces are driving beyond Maknassy in an attempt to cut off Rommel's escape route. The bottom photo shows two ships and a large warehouse burning in the Sardinian harbor of Cagliari after the giant raid by 100 U. S. Flying Fortresses. Cagliari would be a key point if the Axis attempted to stage a north African Dunkirk.

MAYOR'S ORDER TO 'GAG' SIRENS

All Vehicles to Be 'Muzzled' April 30 to Avoid Confusion With Raid Warnings.

Sirens will be heard in Mansfield after April 30 only in event of simulated or actual enemy air raids, under an agreement reached today between Office of Civilian Defense officials and operators of vehicles equipped with such warning devices.

Mayor W. J. Locke, acting in a dual capacity as the city's chief executive and as OCD chairman, this week conferred with state highway patrol officials, Sheriff Frank Robinson, police and fire officials and ambulance owners who all agreed that the fluctuating warning signals of their vehicles could be dispensed with during the war emergency to avoid confusion with established air raid warnings.

Mayor Locke's order issued today stipulates that vehicles will cease their use of sirens after the last day of this month. The order was promulgated by Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator, and will be distributed to all concerned by Police Captain Jesse Schwab, defense commander.

Police and fire apparatus will be equipped with one-toned whistles as soon as the equipment can be obtained, Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff announced today.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The office of censorship today said that John S. Knight, publisher of the Detroit Free Press, Akron Beacon Journal and Miami Herald, has taken a position as liaison officer between the OC and the British censorship office in London.

Knight's duties will involve post, cable and press censorship. He will make an inspection tour of postal stations in this country for several weeks before leaving for London.

Knight is first vice president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and was a lieutenant in the air forces in World War No. 1.

Pajamas, Jewelry, Cash Loot Taken In Series of Robberies

Ten pairs of men's pajamas and jewelry and cash totaling $158.50 comprised the loot reported to police as stolen in a series of store and home burglaries over Friday night.

G. R. Thomas, clerk in the Montgomery Ward and company store, told police he suspected a colored couple of making off with the rayon bed-time garments while shopping in the store Friday afternoon.

Burglars invaded the Ashland road armory, home of Company F of the Ohio State guard and of the Battery D artillery unit now in the far Pacific. C. D. Aughinbaugh, caretaker, told police that a $35 watch and $5 in cash were taken from his quarters while he and his son Edward were absent.

Doyle Gardner, Mansfield R. D. 6, reported to Lieut. Eugene Hartnett that a billfold containing $25, auto records and ration books was stolen from his locker last night at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company.

Mrs. John Young, 84 Orchard street, told Detectives Lee Remy and Oscar Krupp that a watch valued at $49.50 and $6 in cash were stolen from her home.

Nellie Shannon, North Adams street, told the detectives she suspected a certain neighbor of taking $40 from a dresser drawer in her home.

Patrolmen Don Mitchell and John Steel were unable to find trace of a prowler who attempted to gain entrance to the home of R. W. Gustin, 475 Wood street. The family was awakened by the barking of a dog after an alarm buzzer had been set off by the trespasser.

DENIES CHARGE

Soldier Pleads Not Guilty In Bucyrus Slaying.

BUCYRUS — Arraigned before Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl today on a second-degree murder charge, Pvt. Glore Bevard, 33-year-old soldier from Canton, Ill., pleaded innocent in the slaying of Mrs. Wilma Reed, 29, Bucyrus waitress, March 21 in her apartment.

Judge Ahl set Pvt. Bevard's trial for May 18 and said he would appoint counsel for the defendant.

The soldier's plea was entered today by Atty. John Carroll of Bucyrus who had been employed for the arraignment by the defendant's father.

Pvt. Bevard had been stationed at Camp Millard near Bucyrus and authorities said he had shared an apartment with Mrs. Reed, mother of two children. The soldier surrendered to officers four days after the slaying and authorities said he admitted choking Mrs. Reed and beating her.

MEAT, CANNED GOODS RATIONS HIT PROBLEMS

Point Hoarding Evident In Mansfield, Nation; Week-End Buying Heavy.

CONGRESS ACTION HINTED

Dispute Over Grade Labeling Of Canned Foods Rages In Washington.

A meat buying rush, somewhat milder than the stampede of last week-end kept butchers in Mansfield and over the nation busy today, while in Washington the controversy over grade labeling of canned goods and other products became more intense with indications that congress will intervene to put an end to the dispute.

Mansfield meat dealers today indicated that housewives have been hoarding their red meat coupons the way they did meat last week.

A week-end buying comparing with the days before rationing has surprised Mansfield butchers after the slow buying throughout the week.

"Our customers have been saving their stamps all week and are using all of them for week-end buying," one dealer said. He indicated that a good supply of meat which arrived during the week kept the heavy buying from greatly depleting stocks.

Grade labeling of canned goods which has generally received support from labor and consumer groups is expected to draw congressional action soon. Congressional sources predicted that the house will pass next week a resolution drafted by Rep. Halleck (R) Ind., to authorize its interstate commerce committee to investigate OPA's proposals for grading canned goods and meats as a support for price control.

Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown today headed toward a major decision on the question which may determine his future effectiveness in the price and rationing post. He is expected to decide in 10 days whether canners must grade and label their products according to government standards.

On Feb. 26, he said that grade labeling is essential to the enforcement of price ceilings. Following stiff opposition from canners, who contend they have

DIES IN ACTION

Crawford County Navy Ensign Killed In Pacific.

BUCYRUS — Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Auck, North Robinson, were informed by the Navy Department today that their only son, Ensign Harold Auck, 24, had been killed in action in the South Pacific war zone.

No details were contained in the brief official message concerning the death of the young naval flier, who received his wings last August in Corpus Christi, Tex.

A graduate of North Robinson high school and Heidelberg college, where he was a football player, young Auck enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserves in 1941. He had his preliminary training in Kansas City.

One month after he was commissioned in the navy, he was married to Miss I. Kathleen Merryman of Cleveland, in the chapel at Heidelberg, where his bride is now a student. They resided in San Diego, Calif., for a few weeks.

TOLEDO — (AP) — Two women were killed, four persons injured and 20 others escaped unscathed when a street car collided with a Pere Marquette railroad passenger train at the Philips avenue crossing here today.

One of the women killed was tentatively identified as Mrs. Sidney Dossat. The other dead woman is Mrs. Ella Kinner, 40.

CUTS WAGES

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— The regional war labor board today ordered a reduction from 80 to 70 cents per hour in wage scales for trainees at the Fisher Body company, believed to be the first of its kind in cutting a wage scale to equalize rates.

The new order was not retroactive and effects only those starting training from now on.

Big Yank Guns Smash German Tank Attack

Americans Hurl Back Sortie on South Central Tunisian Front as 1st Army Strikes Toward Bizerte; Axis Forces Harried From Air.

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—The British First army has driven closer to Mateur, only 18 miles from Bizerte, an Allied communique announced today, and field dispatches said American big guns smashed a German tank attack on the south-central front.

Despite bad weather generally, the great Anglo-American aerial armada gave the harried Axis forces no rest. Light bombers and fighter-bombers raked German positions and transports north of Gabes in relays, the enemy airfield at La Fauconnerie was bombed twice and raging fires were left burning, and fighters maintained constant patrols.

Six enemy fighters were sent crashing to the earth and four Allied planes were lost.

No details of the latest advance of Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's First army in northern Tunisia were given in the communique, but dispatches indicated that the troops already were less than 30 miles from Bizerte.

First army patrols "successfully engaged and inflicted casualties on an enemy patrol," the communique said. Elsewhere, it reported only patrol activity.

Thirty-two German tanks attacked the American positions some 15 miles east of El Guetar yesterday, but a Hurricane barrage knocked out three of them and the other 29 turned back, dispatches said.

Meantime, the British Eighth army was massing strength for an assault to break through German Marshal Erwin Rommel's last natural defense line above Sousse nearly 140 miles to the north. The German Africa corps now was entrenched along the north rim of the deep, water-filled Wadi Akarit at the northern entrance to the Gabes gap 20 miles above Gabes.

(The Algiers radio reported at 8 a. m. Algiers time that fighting has broken out anew between Eighth army vanguards and Rommel's rear guards 24.8 miles north of Gabes, a suggestion that advance British forces have swept across the wadi. The main body of the Africa corps was said to be continuing its rapid retreat.)

(The Allied-controlled Morocco radio quoted unconfirmed reports that Rommel's headquarters were "no longer in Tunisia" and radio London relayed a Swiss report that Rommel would become liasion officer and military adviser to the Italian high command when he leaves Tunisia.)

The length of the German stand at Wadi Akarit is expected to depend as much on the progress of twin American thrusts from the northeast against his rear as much as on the impending frontal attack by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army.

The northernmost of the two American columns already is east of Maknassy and within 30 miles of Wadi Akarit. In its latest advance, reported today, the column drove six miles north from Maknassy to the outskirts of Meheri Zebbeus.

In central Tunisia, French forces pushed farther across the Ousseltia plain without "notable" opposition. A communique said the garrison of one enemy position in Oueb Kebir valley was completely destroyed.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Al-

TWIN RAID: RAF Bombers Hit Big Nazi Sub Bases In Force

(By United Press)

LONDON—British four-engined bombers struck in force last night at Lorient and St. Nazaire, Germany's two largest submarine bases on the French Atlantic coast.

The double blow ended a four-night, weather-enforced lull in the Anglo-American aerial offensive following the heavy attacks Monday night on Berlin and Bochum, the latter a steel and railway center in Germany's Ruhr.

Only two planes were lost in last night's raids and in subsidiary mine-laying operations, considered an unusually small loss for attacks on such heavily-defended targets.

Every type of bomb from two-ton block busters to two-pound incendiaries was unloaded on the submarine pens, Repair shops and other U-boat facilities of St. Nazaire and Lorient, both of which already have been so badly battered by Anglo-American planes that the Germans are believed to be on the point of moving the bases farther south in France.

The raid on Lorient was the 69th of the war and that on St. Nazaire, the 47th. Lorient last was attacked in daylight by the 8th U. S. air force March 6.

Other Allied planes took over the resumed aerial offensive in daylight today. Bombers and fighters swept over the southeast coast in relays and bomb explosions were heard from the direction of the northeast coast of

GIRDING: Japs Strengthen All Bases, Fear Mighty U. S. Blow

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—American heavy and medium bombers again bombed the Japanese base on Kiska in the Aleutians with four raids on Thursday, the navy announced today.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The Japanese today were reported to be strengthening their bases all along the great Pacific battle arc, apparently in anticipation of an American offensive.

Informed sources said there were indications the enemy was concerned over the possibility of powerful American thrusts as the result of the recent conference of Pacific naval and military leaders.

Because the enemy isn't sure where the blows might come, they said, defensive preparations are being carried out over a wide area.

One such reinforcement effort in the Solomons this week met American air interference. Less than two weeks ago, a similar enemy operation in the Aleutians was thwarted by an American surface force. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's fliers have been active against enemy ships seeking to supply Japanese bases in the New Guinea area. The two American air attacks recently carried out against Nauru island, 675 miles northeast of Guadalcanal, also were designed to interfere with Japanese attempts to strengthen

Enemy Propaganda

Dispatches and pictures from capitals of warring nations are subject to censorship. Propaganda is the motive behind most statements, especially those from capitals of enemy powers and their satellites. Don't confuse rumors, reports and claims with confirmed news.

Meet 100-Year-Old Lodge In City

First of a series of features introducing you to Mansfield fraternal organizations with pictures and text highlights the Sunday edition tomorrow. As a lead-off, meet a lodge which was founded just 100 years ago this month in the city—the I. O. O. F.

In the days before tire and gasoline rationing you probably drove past the Richland county home scores of times, but you probably never visited it. Well, camera and reporter have made a wartime visit for you, in company with the county commissioners. After looking at their report you'll undoubtedly admit both your surprise and pleasure at what this county institution is like.

With warmer days on the way, both parents and children are beginning to think of summer camps again. The Sunday edition previews plans of the Friendly House, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. W. C. A., and Y. M. C. A. for their camps this summer.

Did you know that a physician who lived and worked in Mansfield almost a score of years ago is the man responsible for setting up the national blood donor program of the Red Cross? When you see his picture tomorrow you may remember him. At any rate his story makes top reading.

You will also meet a Mansfielder who has designed key parts for a machine that does 23 jobs in the production of an important piece of army equipment.

And there's a new point ration chart for canned goods that will fit inside your ration book.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—Word filters out that President Roosevelt hopes to bring the senate, and members of the house, into closer play regarding preparations for after the war.

We may see some rather marked changes in practice in that respect, as the United Nations discussions become more frequent.

Clapper

It would not be surprising to see the president make it a habit to place members of the senate, or house, or both, on American delegations to future United Nations conferences. There will be many such conferences. Already in mind, as President Roosevelt has indicated, is the food conference—to be followed, he hopes, by a conference on relief, another on finances, and perhaps still another on minerals, metals and oil.

He has discussed with his close friends the desirability of finding senators and representatives who would be willing to serve in such conferences, and who would feel free to devote the time that would be required by the complicated nature of these meetings.

First of all, Mr. Roosevelt is sharply conscious of the failure of Woodrow Wilson. He recognizes that the failure of President Wilson was primarily in his relations with the senate.

Woodrow Wilson was an exceptionally astute student of the American congressional system. He wrote one of the standard works on it in his earlier days. Yet as president he seemed to overlook completely the senate's role in foreign relations.

Woodrow Wilson had sufficient popular support in the country to have sustained him through the league of Nations controversy under normal conditions. Public pressure in the beginning was preponderantly on the side of the league. Even Senator Lodge, the Republican chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and later the bitter foe of Wilson, had advocated a League of Nations with police powers two years before Versailles. In 1916 he was for the league to enforce peace.

But Wilson ignored the senate. He forgot to take any senators to Paris with him. He had recognized the Republicans only by placing one diplomat on the delegation. Henry White, who had only a faint Republican party tradition behind him. White was not an active Republican. He was not considered by Republican senators to represent their viewpoint in any sense but rather to be only a nominal captive Republican. The appointment only incensed them, for they regarded it as a trick at their expense.

That deadly opposition of a frustrated and offended senate, and nothing else, beat Woodrow Wilson. After a year's battle, the treaty lost by only seven votes short of the necessary two-thirds.

All of that President Roosevelt has thought about a great deal. It has been so much in his mind that it may have deterred him from moving as directly as he otherwise might have moved. He has wished to use extreme care to avoid any misstep that might bring similar disaster from the senate.

He was nervous about the Ball resolution chiefly because of the damage that would result if the senate failed to cast a two-thirds vote for it or for some strong substitute.

In other words, it is recognized around the White House that America's future place in the world will be determined, not only by what this government and other governments can agree upon, but by what two-thirds of the American senate will agree to.

In practical terms, that means that the administration must have a program that will have the support of senators like George of Georgia, Tydings of Maryland and Vandenberg of Michigan—to suggest types that I have heard mentioned by some friends of the administration. You have to find something that will carry them along.

The great value of the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill resolution is that it brings that fundamental question to a head. We had been getting the cart somewhat before the horse. What will two-thirds of the senate vote for, in the way of recommendations now? That is the important thing for everybody to know, both here and abroad.

The administration will have difficulty in talking turkey with foreign governments unless it can show that senate sentiment supports its general position.

ICKES CHANGES OIL TRANSPORT, SUPPLY SYSTEM

Seeks More Efficient Use of Carriers In Mid-West, Dealer Exchanges.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The Petroleum Administration for War today announced rearrangement of the petroleum supply and distribution system of the middle west in a move to get more oil to the east coast.

The major objectives of the new plan are: Efficient use of all available transportation facilities in the 15 middle western states comprising PAW district two, and release of additional mobile transportation equipment for service to the east coast.

"What we are here directing," said Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes, "is the co-ordination of the supply and distribution of about 1,000,000 barrels of petroleum products per day (more than the peace-time consumption of all Europe) as though it were all distributed by a single company."

Customers will continue to order their oil from the usual sources of supply, but the industry — through exchanges, loans, sales and purchases among its members — will fill orders from the nearest terminal supply point.

The 15 middle western states—North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee—are divided into 26 zones for the distribution of motor fuel, kerosene and distillates (heating oils). For residual fuel there are 11 zones.

All zones are based on the relative location of refineries, pipelines, water terminals and other pertinent factors of supply and transportation facilities. Their arrangement is expected to facilitate transportation.

Simultaneously, Ickes moved to protect small midwestern oil refineries by allocating 40,500 barrels of crude oil a day to them on a pro-rata basis.

Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies admitted that the crude oil situation in the middle west was "getting somewhat tight," and that under present conditions it affected the small independent refiners more adversely than the large companies

NEED PERMITS

Farmers Doing Butchering Get War Board Warning.

The Richland County Agricultural War board today had issued 45 slaughterers' permits, 28 of them to butchers.

Although the deadline for obtaining licenses to handle meat was midnight March 31, the board expects farmers to continue to call for permits if they do their own butchering and sell meat.

In the permits issued by the war board were only six to farmers and 11 to meat dealers or agencies. Under the new government regulations, all persons who handle meat of butcher animals for sale must be licensed.

ACCUSED FREED ON $500 BOND

Shelby Man Faces Charge Of Contributing To Delinquency.

Worlie Jack Perry, 24, Shelby, was released from Richland county jail under $500 bond this morning after his arrest in Shelby last night on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl.

Bound over from Shelby mayor's court in January, grand jurors Thursday voted a "no bill" after consideration of a charge of rape with consent. The contributing charge against Perry was booked Thursday the same day the grand jury was in session.

The charge against Perry, a former taxicab driver in Shelby, was filed by L. E. Coffey, Shelby police chief, and W. R. Morris, Shelby mayor as a result of his alleged relations with a 15-year-old Shelby girl, the prosecutor said.

Akron Coroner Now Agrees Colored Cook Shot Co-Ed Then Took Own Life.

AKRON — (INS) — Entered in Summit county records today was a verdict of murder and suicide in the double shooting of Lucille D'Aprano, Kent State university co-ed, and George Reynolds, country club chef, after a conference between county legal and medical authorities.

Dr. R. E. Amos, county coroner who had entered the deaths as double murder, said last night that the record which he had signed as a murder case would be changed to read murder and suicide.

Amos had tried to establish a verdict of double murder because two bullets were found in each body, and the gun had exploded five times. Later x-rays revealed the fifth bullet in Reynold's body. Amos still held that Reynolds had been shot by someone else because two bullets had entered his body in different directions. Reynolds was found to have been ambidextrous.

Amos County Prosecutor Alva J. Russell and Sheriff Walter P. O'Neil, climaxing an investigation which started Tuesday when both the dead were found in a parked car near Akron, agreed that evidence pointed to the murder of Miss D'Aprano by Reynolds, as they walked near Silver Lake, Sunday night.

Authorities reported that Reynolds apparently drove away with the girl beside him, in an effort to dispose of her body, then later parked the car, got in the back seat, and shot himself.

It is believed by officials that the two had been friendly, and that the girl tried to break off the acquaintance.

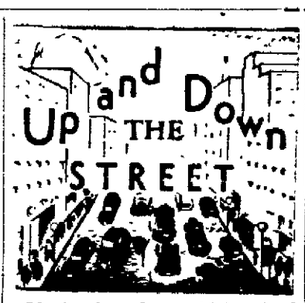
OHIO: Continued cold today and tonight with freezing temperature tonight, fresh winds and a few snow flurries in east portion today.



Maybe four Lucas high school juniors should be punished for truancy but they probably won't be. Unexcused absence yesterday afternoon might have cost them loss of liberties or a severe lecture had it not been for what they hope Supt. J. E. McCollough will term a "good reason." The absent boys were: William Kaylor, Bill Hammett, Don Switzer and "Manager" Miller. The excuse: they came to Mansfield to shop for a gift for McCollough, who coached the class play, "Polishing Papa," which was presented last night

The W. O. Burkholder household, 94 South Main street, was shockingly disturbed at 4 a. m. today. Clay Wyle, driver for a Charleston, W. Va., trucking firm, told Patrolmen William Taylor and Carl Beard that when a rear dual wheel broke loose from a trailer he was towing with a tractor down Main street hill the truant rubber hurtled along the pavement for several hundred feet, jumped the curbing and crashed against the Burkholder porch. No material damage resulted to the dwelling but the trailer needed considerable repairs, the police report said.

Mansfielders are conducting themselves better, if a comparison of March and February police reports is an indicator. March arrests included 79 men and 10 women while in February 87 men and 11 women were apprehended. No serious offenses were charged, with a slight decrease noted in the intoxication total. In the traffic department, however, 637 parking law violators were cited during March, as compared to 568 in February, but Commissioner Frend C. Boals attributes the gain primarily to the reinstatement of one patrolman and the appointment of a new member of the squad during the month, affording fuller coverage of the downtown area.

BOOSTS LOANS ON SOYBEANS

AAA Proposes 10 Cents Per Bushel More on Borrowing Or 1943 Market Price.

The Richland county Triple-A committee today was informed that a loan and purchase program supporting prices to farmers on 1943 soybeans and providing a 10-cent per bushel boost over the 1942 rate will be offered by the government.

On the basis of last year's crop in Richland county, the 10-cent boost would mean an additional $24,000 in income for Richland county farmers. Estimated production of beans last year was 240,000 bushels and it is expected to be higher in 1943.

Base loan and purchase rate on No. 2 yellow soybeans with a 14 per cent moisture content was set at $1.70 per bushel, as compared with $1.60 a year ago. Premiums for low moisture and discounts for other quality factors, result in a price range of $1.75 down to $1.57 for green and yellow soybeans of other grades and moisture contents. Last year's program provided discounts for some grades, but no premiums for low moisture content.

Loans are extended by the Commodity Credit corporation through county AAA committees and participating farmers must plant not less than 90 per cent of their war crop goal. Loans will be made through Jan. 1, 1944, and will mature on demand not later than April 30, 1944.

Consent for storage of the beans on farms until July 1, 1944, will be required. To be eligible for loans the crop must grade No. 4 or better with respect to factors other than moisture and have a moisture content of not more than 14 per cent. Those grading weevily, or which are musty, sour, heating or have an objectional foreign odor, are not eligible for loan, the committee said.

Authorities Seek Soldier Bitten By Rabid Dog

NEW YORK —(AP)— Soldier—think back! Your life may depend upon it.

If you were the man who was bitten by a dog at the corner of Smithfield street and First avenue in Pittsburgh last Tuesday—report to a doctor immediately.

Second service command headquarters, issuing an appeal to the unidentified soldier, said an autopsy performed upon the dog at the Pittsburgh city health department laboratory proved the animal to be infected with rabies.

The Ohio highway patrol also issued an appeal after all efforts to reach the soldier, apparently unaware of his peril, failed in Pittsburgh.

FARM LEADERS FIGHT CHARGE OF 'INFLATION'

Deny Bankhead Bill Endangers Little Steel Formula In Effort to Get Votes.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Farm bloc leaders today sought to combat a charge that in driving for passage of the Bankhead bill over a presidential veto they are aiding labor in the fight to scrap the "little steel' wage formula.

"I don't entertain that idea or I wouldn't have sponsored the bill," said Sen. John H. Bankhead (D., Ala.)

The Bankhead bill, which prohibits deduction of benefit or parity payments in fixing price ceilings on farm commodities, comes before the senate Tuesday on a move to override President Roosevelt's veto.

Leaders of the congressional farm bloc were confident that the bill can be passed over the veto, but they expressed concern over the assertion by President Roosevelt that the measure is inflationary and his intimation that the "little steel" formula is being adhered to only because cost of living is being kept down.

President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation and other leaders of organized agriculture insisted that the bill would have slight effect on prices and is not inflationary.

Philip Murray, CIO chief, and William Green, AFL president, who earlier this week asked Mr. Roosevelt to roll back food prices to the September levels, and objected to the Bankhead measure, appealed to congress to uphold the veto "in order to safeguard our domestic economy against the ravages of inflation."

The labor leaders had warned that unless food prices were held down, the war labor board's wage plan would have to be revised upward.

Bankhead said his measure applied to only three commodities—corn, wheat and sugar. Any rise in prices due to the bill, he said, would be slight and would not justify a general wage increase.

Congress, he said, had appropriated $450,000,000 for soil conservation payments and $212,000,000 for parity payments. If prices rise to parity, the $212,000,000 appropriation won't be made, he said.

"The farmer gets parity and the only difference is whether it comes out of the taxpayer or the consumer," he said. "One is no more inflationary than the other."

Sen. Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.), predicted that the administration would "get busy and see the senators" in an effort to muster enough votes to prevent passage of the bill over a veto.

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Fans Talk Back.

(Excerpts from letters from readers on a subject of recent debates.)

Dear Miss Kilgallen:

I was very happy to read your column in which you praised the work done by Kay Francis, Carole Landis, Mitzi Mayfair and Martha Raye. I was surprised to think that anyone could believe that they were doing it solely for publicity, especially since it means so much to our boys stationed over there.

This is an excerpt of a letter I received from my brother, Sgt. S. J. Sposato, stationed with the American Air Forces somewhere in North Africa:

"Yesterday I saw my first show in quite some time and it really was great except that it made me homesick for a minute. We saw Kay Francis, Carole Landis, Mitzi Mayfair, and none other than Martha Raye. Kay acted as m c and told us all about you folks at home. Mitzi danced a few numbers and then did a jive number with one of the boys. I guess we're a bit behind in our dancing because she was a trifle too fast for him.

"Carole sang some songs and the best one was 'Let's Do It.' It's a grand number and she really put it over. Martha was her usual self and had us all in stitches. It was a treat to see real people from back home. No matter what you say the American women are first on our list. I can't tell you how much we boys appreciated what those movie stars did for us. They more than bolstered our morale since we knew the existing conditions under which they put on the show. You've got to give them credit for such fine courage and spirit.

"Incidentally, Sis, I hope we can keep that date with Kay very soon. She said, 'We'll meet you again in Berlin'."

I wonder how many other boys wrote home and said those very things. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Miss Mildred Sposato.

Dear Miss Kilgallen read your column on Tamara in Washington Times Herald and was very much moved. Her last engagement was at my Troika and she pleaded to be released from her contract when she was offered the chance to go across with the USO. I agree with you that it was pure unselfishness that prompted her to go and to expect no reward in the form of publicity, or otherwise. I could not resist letting you know how right you were about Tamara.

Helen Hamilton.

New York City.

Dear Dorothy:

I have two sons in the service and they have both been in the hot spots in this war for a long time. At least to me, their mother, it has been a long time to have my boys separated from me, one for 14 months, the other for seven months, and I agree with you that the show folk who have the courage to go into danger with their eyes open deserve respect.

They are the means of my being able to go to bed and enjoy a restful night of peaceful sleep, because I've received many letters from my boys saying just how much the USO shows have helped to keep up their morale.

I hope you will forgive me for my boldness but I can understand and admire you for defending our actors and actresses who put the pleasure of our men in uniform before the safety of their own lives. One of my boys is in the southwest Pacific, the other a relief pilot of a cargo vessel in the Atlantic. They are both just children, hardly knowing the problems of life. One is 22, the other 20. I know how much it means to them to see these entertainers from home.

Respectfully,
Mrs. L. Horn.

IN HOLLYWOOD-- By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—One of the first things Marguerite Chapman did when she came to Hollywood was to fall downstairs at a big movie party. It was a spectacular entrance, not quite as she had planned.

About the second thing was to smile sincerely at an aging ex-star and say, "Oh, I used to love your pictures when I was a little girl!"

And then there was the time when, assigned to a movie, she walked on the set and laid out her make-up kit in the star's dressing room. "I just didn't know any better," she says. "Back in New York the models all were friendly and easy-going, and shared rooms. I thought it would be the same here."

Coons

Those were the days when Marguerite, new to Hollywood, was learning the ropes. She doesn't commit faux pas any more. One of the "Navy Blues Sextette," she is now leading lady to Edward G. Robinson in 'Destroyer" and to George Sanders in "Appointment In Berlin." She is a tall pretty girl, brown hair, blue eyes, bright and alert, and she says, for a swear-word "Oh, Beans'"

You'd know, from that, that she's a family girl. Only family girls say "Oh Beans" in just that way. Her dad is a railroad engineer, and Marguerite or "Slugger" to her friends—grew up with four brothers, three of them older than her 23 years and all now in military or naval service. A girl who survives growing up with four brothers (says Maggie) can take anything, even Hollywood, with a grin.

As one of a big family, Maggie didn't expect more than her share of attention, and she did expect to do her share of the work. She worked during school days—caring for babies, later waiting on tables, and clerking. She had a fling at a millinery school, a dentist's office, and the telephone company before she learned about modeling. In two weeks she was making $100 a week at it.

Howard Hughes brought her west to test for "The Outlaw," the part Jane Russell got. She signed a six-month contract with 20th, and was dropped. She did a serial at Republic, she played second lead in "A Guy, a Girl and a Gob," and she went home. Warner's brought her back for "Navy Blues," kept her six months, dropped her. There were times when she was ill as well as broke, but she stuck around. She's made plenty of "B" pictures, one after another, picking up experience. Now she's at Columbia—and on her way.

Her ambition: "When I fill out a form that calls for my occupation, I'd like to write 'actress' and feel I have the right."

Red Army Moves Ahead In Caucasus

MOSCOW —(INS)— The Red army's offensive in the Kuban territory of the west Caucasus moved steadily forward today as the high command announced in a special communique that its troops had regained 185,328 square miles of territory in the successful winter campaign.

Occupation of several more localities in the Kuban area was revealed in the regular noon communique.

Red army troops attacking another German hold town under cover of artillery broke into the enemy garrison and killed 300 Nazis.

Although attacks were continued by both sides on the central front and in the Donets river battle area they were only small-scale actions and no important changes took place during the night, the high command said.

"On one sector of the central front an enemy unit attempted to penetrate a forward area of Soviet defenses but was dispersed and partly annihilated by rifle, machine-gun and mortar fire," said the communique.

German forces continued an attack on the positions of one Russian unit along the middle reaches of the north Donets but again were successfully repelled. They left 150 dead on the battlefield.

Artillery action was reported west of Rostov at the lower end of the southern front. Soviet batteries destroyed eight German blockhouses and dispersed and partly annihilated two companies of enemy troops.

The special communique announcing the recapture of 185,328 square miles of Soviet soil in the winter campaign said that the Germans at some points had been swept back to the west for a distance of 435 miles.

The announcement declared that casualties among German troops and those of satellite nations totaled 1,193,525. Of these, 350,000 were killed and 343,525 were taken prisoner.

25 CENTS FOR SIRLOIN STEAKS

Los Angeles Butchers Cut Price To Get Rid Of Choice Meats.

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — The price of sirloin steaks, porterhouses and other quality cuts was slashed far below ceiling prices in numerous Los Angeles markets today in a move to sell the meat before it spoiled.

In a few instances top-grade porterhouse, with a ceiling price of 72 cents, was sold for 25 and 50 cents a pound.

The situation was brought about by the high ration point value of the quality cuts. The big demand, one meat company executive said, is for hamburger at 5 points a pound.

CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Unreality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist Sunday. It will have for the Golden Text: "What is the chaff to the wheat? saith the Lord" (Jeremiah 23:28).

Included in the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon are the correlative passages from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

FIRST CHRISTIAN

Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger will speak on the subject "A Study of the Cross," at services at 10:30 a. m. Official board will meet Sunday at 2:30 p. m.; Ladies Missionary society at the church Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.; Guild meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Hassinger, 282 Dickson avenue.

The Delaware Conference declared, "We believe that moral law, no less than physical law, undergirds our world. There is a moral order which is fundamental and eternal, and which is relevant to the corporate life of men and the ordering of human society. If mankind is to escape chaos and recurrent war, social and political institutions must be brought into conformity with this moral order."

This moral order is well-expressed by St. Paul, "We are members one of another" and "The eye cannot say to the hand I have no need of thee; or again the head to the feet, I have no need of thee." The church teaches the principles for this moral order. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY? —D. Carl Yoder.

Nationally known Pulpiteer Albert Day of the First Methodist church, Pasadena, Calif., is spending two weeks out of each month in the hole or special mediator for the National War Labor board.

A total of 750,000 refugees have found new homes in Palestine, North and South America and elsewhere as a result of large-scale rescue efforts supported by American Jews in the 10 years since Hitler came to power, the United Jewish Appeal reports.

Dr. Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," and other books, who was 86 on Feb. 26, has announced that for the rest of his life he will engage in efforts to unite the Protestants, Catholics and Jews of the world in a common protest against war.

Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, writing on the churches in Germany, states that 60% of all pastors are in the army, leaving more than half of the churches without trained leadership. Many of the ministers, too old for any duty, are in concentration camps for actual or alleged disagreement with the government on war issues. He tells that there are 90 of such pastors in one comp.

It is said that despite all of their own losses and suffering, despite the buring of many of their churches, and despite the fact that the young men are all at war, the Baptists of Great Britain have raised more than a million dollars for relief in China. What a record that is! What an answer this is to the oft heard statement that we cannot help others because we ourselves are in distress!

The Cape Cod plan, a year old, is winning its way as a practical plan for the world's spiritual fortress. It consists of a simple prayer, "Father, thy will be done through me." Prominent denominational leaders have joined in the movement to enlist Christians of every faith to use this prayer thoughtfully and sincerely three times daily. And once they have enlisted, they agree to secure seven others to do the same; they in turn securing seven others. There is no membership, no making of a public report, no assessment.

When provoked, when misjudged, when harshly criticised, just be sure that in your response you will be big. "I'm not big enough, or those things would not hurt me," said a missionary with a sigh, as he found his majestic life work spoiled by his allowing trivialities to upset him. The social and moral level of society will be lifted only by big men and women.

A five-year-old girl was taught to close her evening prayer, during the absence of her traveling father, with, "And please watch over my papa." It sounded very sweet to the mother, but her astonishment may be imagined when one evening the little girl added, "And you had better keep an eye on mamma too."

The things that matter most are not subject to things that matter least.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, APRIL 3, 1943.

I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience. I know of no way of judging of the future but by the past.—Patrick Henry.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and make sure that the new license sticker is firmly attached to the windshield.

Consoling thought: Close adherence to the rationing program will reduce danger of an attack of acute indigestion.

Luxury note from the Brattleboro, (Vt.) Reformer: "The annual sugar eat of the West River Rebekah lodge" is announced to be held at the usual time and place.

Veto Message Carries Appeal

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S veto of the Bankhead farm parity bill, which he says is "inflationary in character," seems to also indicate intention to take a similar position in the matter of union demands for higher wages, with the threatened mine strike as the entering wedge in an effort to nullify the Little Steel wage formula.

In his veto message the president said: "The time has come when all of us—farmers, workers, managers and investors—must realize that we cannot improve our living standards in a period of total war. On the contrary, we must cut our standards of living for the duration."

That is a plain statement of a commendable policy—yet one that is so far from practices thus far indulged in as to make it almost ludicrous.

Extent to which wage jumps have already been sanctioned for war workers in factories and on construction projects, with consequent withdrawal of men ordinarily engaged in farm work or other lines of essential employment, has gone far to justify farmers in their contention that they are entitled to more for their products.

The whole matter of wages and prices is so closely interwoven that neither can be ignored in considering the other, nor can the need for maintaining a living profit for the distribution of farm produce and other commodities from producer to consumer be left unconsidered.

The president hit the nail on the head when he said: "If, by this bill, you force an increase in the cost of basic food stuffs, and as a result, the National War Labor Board increases wages, no one can tell what those increases will ultimately cost the farmers and all the people of the nation."

In a plea for retention of the Little Steel wage formula the president said: "If this formula is broken now it will start an inevitable inflationary spiral that would ultimately cancel out whatever gains labor has made, and place an intolerable burden on widows and old folks with fixed incomes, and on teachers and unorganized workers in low-paid occupations."

That is sound ground for the administration to stand upon, if it is to be the welfare of the nation as a whole, rather than the advantage of any of the minority pressure groups, that is being given first thought.

If there is to be preferential treatment of any one group, as a result of organization pressure and threats, the same consideration must extend to others—in which case runaway inflation will be inevitable.

Regional Freight Rates Held Unfair

THE TVA recommends to congress abolition of the five-region-system of freight rates and creation of one nationwide system, to help the south and the west achieve greater industrial development.

There are now five major freight-rate territories. The most favored, according to TVA, is the northeastern one—bounded by the Mississippi on the west, by the Ohio and Potomac on the south. The rate there is $1.60 per hundred pounds for 800 miles inside that territory, whereas for the same distance in southern territory it is $2.22.

"Regional differences are not justified by cost differences," says the TVA report, which takes the stand that by the difference in freight rates, injustices are imposed on the west and south.

Without going too deeply into the origins of the freight differentials, or into present reasons for maintaining rates at their present levels, it looks as if the TVA had a case for leveling off these rates after the war.

Differences of this kind are something like the interstate tariff barriers. They tend to break the country into separate regions. Any move in the direction of greater unity, greater equality of opportunity, is also an incentive to the development of private enterprise, and to the raising of the living standards and buying power in districts now less prosperous than others.

Distillers Approve Rationing Plan

NOW that distillers have approved a liquor-rationing plan for Ohio, prompt legislative and executive action may be expected, although definite plans have not yet been announced and it is not known whether schools will be used for registration purposes, as is being done in rationing other scarce commodities.

Cause of the three-months delay in rationing the state's inadequate supply of whisky did not become clear until yesterday, when it was announced from Columbus that spokesmen for fifteen liquor manufacturers met with Governor Bricker and State Liquor Director Fisher and approved the rationing plan.

With this sanction, it appears, the senate is now in position to act favorably on a house-approved bill authorizing establishment of "a more equitable distribution system"—which is a roundabout way of saying "rationing."

No hint has been given as to probable allowance under rationing, there having been no official pronouncement on this subject since late last year when Jacob Taylor, who preceded Don Fisher as state liquor director, asked patrons of state stores to voluntarily limit individual purchases to "one quart a day."

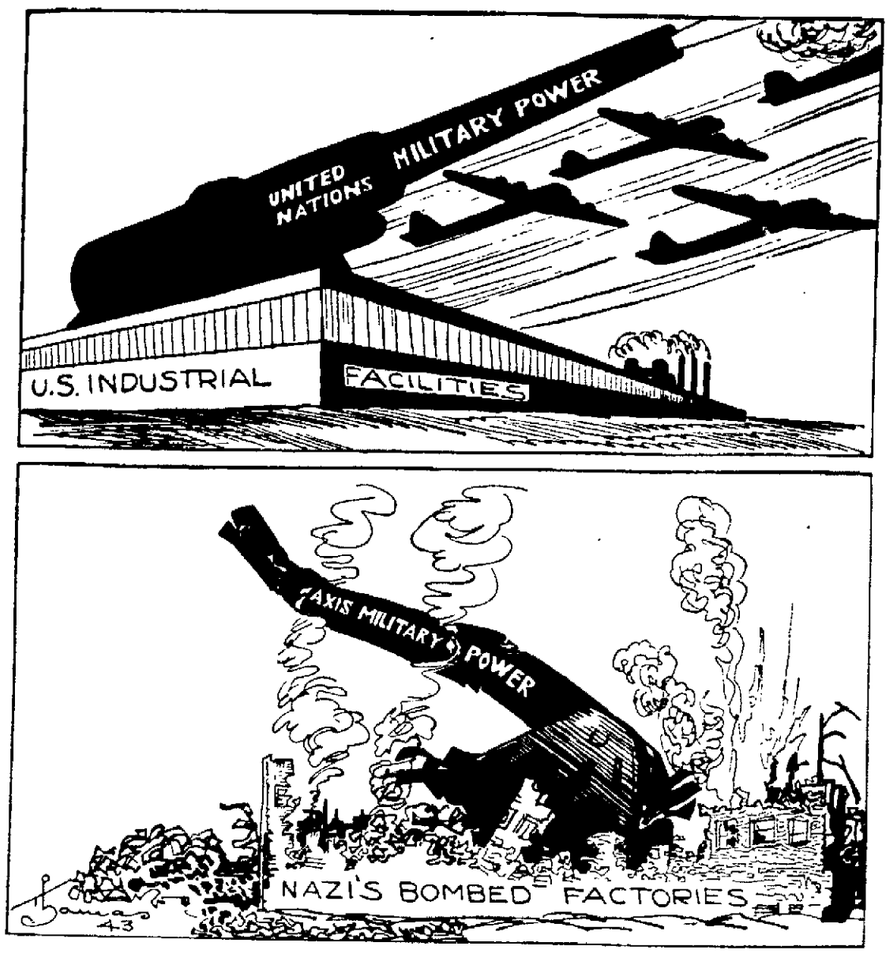
"Black chicken prices" now get into the news—which seems to eliminate some of the popular white and mixed-color varieties.

Overheard remark: "Pay-as-you-go would be tough enough, but this pay-after-it's-gone plan is even tougher."

Bananas are now being marketed in dehydrated form—thus eliminating the danger of slipping on the peeling.

Remote worry: What other work will be found for policemen when plans for a perfect world go into effect?

INCREASING AND DIMINISHING POWER



Wendell Willkie's Ups and Downs

By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — It is said by his friends that Wendell L. Willkie captured the imagination of the American people in the spring of 1940 and that this forced his nomination at the Republican convention in June of that year.

There is no sound way of proving this. Willkie did not run in any of the primaries. These tests, which some of the progressive minded thought back in 1912 were going to choose presidents from then on and eliminate the power of the "politicians" were won by Thomas E. Dewey.

Yet even if Willkie had never entered the race it is generally agreed that the nominee would not have been Dewey, but Senator Robert Taft, of Ohio.

What is certainly true is that Willkie appealed enormously to a very large group of Republicans, in and out of politics, who were alarmed by what they regarded as the socialistic activities of the New Deal.

It so happened that Willkie more than any other man in America fought this tendency in his capacity as head of a large electric holding company whose interests were threatened by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

TIME and again, during that controversy, Willkie put the administration in a hole in plain sight of the public, especially in his offers to submit the dispute to arbitration. Toward the end, it was not a controversy over ideology at all, but a question of whether a corporation being driven out of business by government competition was entitled to fair compensation for its property.

When Willkie offered with full page advertisements in many newspapers to let the Supreme Court decide what the price ought to be he "stumped the experts." The public had just been reading about certain appointments to the high court and had the conviction that certainly the "interests" could not expect to get any unfair advantage from a decision by that body.

All this is set forth now to recall what it was that made Willkie so popular with so many Republicans in the spring of 1940. He was almost the only man in the country who was really needling the New Deal and getting away with it. Once he was nominated, and began to discuss OTHER issues, his chances dwindled rapidly, as revealed by the various polls taken at different stages through the campaign.

THIS is important NOW because Willkie has just had an upswing in popularity. It seems to be due largely to the fact that he has again attacked the EFFICIENCY of the administration. On the post-war international co-operation issue, of course, he is being left at the post by Vice-President Henry Wallace, just as he was on INTERVENTION during the 1940 campaign.

Willkie was probably at his lowest ebb, politically, when he came back from his trip round the world. He had been screaming for a second front, without finding out about the North African expedition until he was told by Stalin!

Many Republicans in congress wish Willkie would confine his public blasts on post-war problems to economic conditions inside the United States, where he would be on safe and sound ground, rather than play a game where his opponent can change the rules overnight.

Listen World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Beware Day Dreams

YOU CRITICIZE day-dreams," says she. "You talk as if they were a crime. What's wrong with day-dreams?

"All my life I've indulged in them—found in them my secret consolation. They help me escape from the ugliness and brutality of this awful world. Then why shouldn't I enjoy them?"

Why shouldn't you escape ugly reality through day dreams?

Because they are an escape. They are the certain sign of cowardice and fear. And we've no right to indulge in cowardice.

Look around you. Consider the modbid mopers. The dizzy eyed dreamers who indulge in delusions of grandeur. The wretched creatures who constantly flee from supposed persecution. People call them queer. But they are worse than queer. They are shuddering on the brink of hell and some day their grip will slip. Then they will kill themselves or someone else in their mad desire for escape.

Hitler is the world's grimmest current example of such dizzy dreams. Napoleon was another. From childhood on, they slipped from one day dream into another. They magnified trivial slights into frantic grudges. Having been hurt or denied, they planned fantastic revenge.

Never did they see life as it really is, in its true perspective or balance. Instead, they saw themselves as super-men, avenging angels, the unleashed tyrants from another world. They surrounded themselves with symbols of power, with guns and daggers and sycophants.

You dream of being a girl again, petal lipped, golden curled, fragrant in young loveliness. They saw themselves as emissaries from hell. But you both are day-dreaming . . . seeking escape.

There's nothing unique in such a desire. Babes of six and doddering wrecks of seventy share such dreams alike. That frantic desire for escape lies at the root of most of the world's misery.

Some take to drink
Some to crime
Some to drug addiction -
Some to numbing solitude—
Some to various forms of cheating -
But, whatever the expression, they all seek one thing—

ESCAPE!

THEY ALL DREAD TO FACE REALITY.

What can you do about day-dreaming? You can face it and realize what a vicious thing it is. You can see where it is leading you—into a sickher vacuum than any pit in hell. And, having realized its hideous reality, you can fight. Fight by substituting real dreams for desert mirages . . . fight by refusing to escape . . . by seeking and using every chance to TRULY LIVE, HOWEVER MUCH IT MAY HURT AT FIRST.

Birthday surprise party was given for Willard Whitfler at his home on South Adams street.

Anthony F. Cunningham, East Fourth street, was called to Pittsburgh by the death of his father.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Bruno Hauptmann was executed on this date in 1936, and finis was written to the most celebrated crime story of the country—the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Daily Bible Thought

Therefore take up the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand. Ephesians 6:13.

As Others See It

Passing Thought.

Change human nature and what have you got? No wars, no police departments, no bonding companies, no OPA regulations in 20 thick volumes.—Detroit News.

Sounds Plausible.

As one man writes: "Every darned mess in Washington could be cleaned up quickly by any sensible man who would forget politics."—Toledo Blade.

Dave Boone Says:

I SEE where Italy has appealed to everybody over 17 to fight an Allied invasion. Well, my hunch is that the rank and file of the Italian people will, if it's at all possible, welcome us with flowers, music and verse.

* * *

They're as anxious to get the Nazis out of Italy as we are, even more so, and anything we can do to help will be appreciated. In fact, it will earn us Italy's undying gratitude.

* * *

Of course this appeal to everybody to fight us comes direct from Hitler, with Mussolini just playing Charlie McCarthy. It's a long time since Benito ruled Italy. He can hardly remember that far back himself.

Italy's only ray of hope for the future is that she will be invaded by our side and my hunch is that seven out of ten Italians know it.

* * *

Hitler, appealing to all Italian men and women over 17 to fight us to the last ditch, is about the same thing as would be the case if a wild man threw you into the sea and then asked you to make an all-out fight to keep the life guards from teaching you.

Timely Editorial

Let's All Work Harder.

A bill before the state legislature would increase the number of hours which women may be employed in industry. Women may be expected to favor this bill heartily. For they would like the opportunity for greater usefulness and to earn more.

But it seems to us that a law increasing by a few hours the time that women may be employed may prove altogether inadequate. A far more practical measure would be that adopted by the Indiana legislature which has simply suspended the regulations surrounding the employment of women for the duration of the war only. This should receive serious consideration in Ohio.

The time has surely come to concentrate on fighting this war. As has so often been said, and it is truer every day, we have been thinking too much of profits, wages, hours and of all the incidentals to employment and management. It is time to get out from under the wraps and get going. The hours for women that might be fixed by law today might prove far too few three months, six months or a year from now.—Toledo Blade.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Food Problems Getting Attention As Meat Rationing System Starts

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

ON THE DAY Chester C. Davis stepped into the unofficial war cabinet as food administrator, taking over the broad authority previously held by Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard, meat rationing went into effect throughout the nation.

The fact that there was virtually no meat that day to be rationed highlighted the problems facing the new administrator. And within the next few days, Washington was bursting with announcements, rumors and plans to get the food situation under firm control.

The real extent of Davis' authority remained obscure, but farm leaders heard he had taken the post only on condition that he be the final authority on farm prices, that he be accountable only to the president. To the job the St. Louis banker brought plenty of experience as former Agricultural Adjustment Administrator.

To get the food program rolling, these moves were in prospect:

Creation of a volunteer land army of thousands, including many school boys and girls, to ease the farm labor shortage.

Revision of WPB rulings to allow the manufacture of more farm machinery than had been permitted at the time of factory conversion to arms production.

Release of many over-38 farm workers from the armed services; farm jobs for conscientious objectors and registrants in 4-F.

The beef shortage improved daily as rationing got under way.

At Home

Tax Tangle.

Back into the lap of the ways and means committee went all tax proposals, and Rep. Doughton said he was uncertain that the pay-as-you-go plan "ever will come up again."

Said Rep. Carlson, leading proponent of the Ruml plan: "I have just begun to fight . . . The millstone of income tax debt must be removed from around the neck of the American taxpayer."

The Ruml plan for tax abatement was beaten 215 to 198, in a party line-up.

Deadly "Bazooka."

Last week the U. S. war department came up with a secret weapon, radical in principle, undignified in designation, but its potency proved beyond doubt.

The weapon is an anti-tank gun, already known to U. S. soldiers in several fighting sectors as the "bazooka." It can be carried at a run by two men, operated by one, and works like a sky rocket when the shell is inserted in the barrel and the fuse is set off.

With this gun, said the war department, a lone foot soldier can knock out any tank that attacks him; he can demolish armor, brick walls, bridge girders and trees.

The bazooka, now in mass production, can be operated during battle by service personnel—truck drivers, ammunition bearers, clerks and mess help, leaving the regular soldiers free to use their customary weapons.

Month of Grace.

To a senator's urgings that he help congress fight inflation instead of seeking a $2 a day wage increase for 450,000 miners he heads, John L. Lewis had an inelegant but succinct reply:

"I wish you'd inflate the bellies of these miners."

There, said John L., was the point of his collision with the mine operators, a collision that hadn't hurt anyone during the week because both sides had agreed to carry their negotiations 30 days beyond the April 1 expiration date of the existing contract.

Reportedly standing by was congress with an assortment of the most drastic labor bills drafted in recent years.

Easter, With Priorities.

The time has come for parents to break to their offspring the news that the traditional Easter bunny will be traveling light this year because of the war.

Easter decorations have appeared in most of the stores, but they're not the same. There will be no chocolate eggs or rabbits; the government has forbidden the use of chocolate—a prime army energy food in holiday novelty shapes. There will be fewer Easter baskets and novelties; most of them were imported from Japan. There will be fewer Easter lilies, a Bermuda import, because of shipping restrictions.

Curtain for Notables.

In California, death came to:

Moody, tempermental Sergei Rachmaninoff, 69, Russian-born naturalized American pianist, who frequently carried an electrically-heated muff to protect his hands, sometimes sulked before noisy concert audiences, grew to detest the popularity of his most widely-known composition, "Prelude in C Sharp Minor."

Superior Judge Ben B. Lindsey, 73, whose career on the bench was marked by controversy, his advocacy of "companionate marriage," his removal from the Denver juvenile court in 1927. He left instructions for cremation of his body, scattering of the ashes among the trees and flowers of his home because " . . . the sooner the transformation (of the body) back to earth again, the better."

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

USING WHAT WE HAVE

EVERY farmer has, in times past, worked late in the fields, making hay, shocking wheat, cultivating or planting, and has seen his city friends ride by in their sleek cars, at cool of evening, dressed primly and coolly while he himself worked in soiled, sweaty clothes. Almost every farmer has muttered to himself, "Why do I do it?"

From five in the morning to nine at night, eight months of the year—no time clock to punch, but with 15 kinds of work piled up ahead — gambling with the weather, with his own hard earned capital—rearing a large family. Six million farms in this country — nearly 40 million farmer folk, who by their very means of livelihood are trained to hardships, to hard work and long hours, to stability of character, strength and resourcefulness.

Industry has long gone to the farms for leaders; business welcomes farm boys and girls for their honesty and responsibility; college prizes them as a splendid part of the student body. The army and the navy find the rural men good soldiers.

Now, even with the handicaps of inadequate and out-of-date and wornout machinery; with labor costing more than farmers can pay; with fertilizer scarce and seed for planting at a premium, still we shall have comparatively few abandoned, productive farms. Farmers are a stubborn race. They'll keep on trying . . . and while they work, they'll think.

Several times a year many farmers down our way make trips to the state experiment farm, at Wooster, Ohio. What we learn there fits our local farming conditions. The abundant food production of all our United States for numerous years past, the improvement in soil, in seed, in machinery, in livestock breeding, I believe is largely due to the sustaining leadership of state agricultural colleges and experiment stations. Agricultural extension agents have spread the leaven of farm ideals through 4-H clubs and F. F. A.

How can one department in Washington administer to the needs of six million farms scattered over so large a territory? Would it not appear more reasonable to get the local organizations of trained, skilled leadership behind their respective states and communities, with worthwhile incentives, (if incentives are needed) for that local leadership that achieves greatest production — or most efficient methods of work?

Farmers and mules are some alike. They're hard for a green hand to drive. They balk when they lose confidence in the hand upon the reins. But they don't forget their friends, they are mighty long lived, and on occasion they can get in a powerful kick.

Abroad

Pacific Interlude.

During the week there were signs that the Pacific lull was about to end.

From Washington came disclosure that 15 high ranking U. S. generals had been in conference with the Army-Navy command, presumably to map the next steps in the Pacific zones. As they talked, experts pointed out that the logical Allied strategy would be to strike hard and quickly at Japan's battered sea power, before the Nipponese have a chance to recover from the losses in the Bismarck sea and the earlier, costly defeats at Guadalcanal.

Of prime interest to American military officials was the renewal, during the week, of the Russo-Japanese fighting pact, through which the Japanese are permitted to take fish in certain Soviet waters. Some authorities dismissed it as the natural act of two nations too busy with other enemies to make war on each other.

England Prepares.

There was frantic hunting through the clothes closets of London as civilians dusted off their steel helmets in anticipation of reprisal raids. German bombs were expected to return for the bumpings Berlin took when the RAF resumed its excursions over the capital.

One raid, in which nine RAF bombers were lost, dropped 900 tons of bombs on Berlin, double the worst pounding London received at the height of her ordeal. Another raid two nights later was made in such force that RAF losses totaled 21 bombers while another 12 planes were lost in a devastating sweep over the Ruhr.

Slow Motion.

The Russian war machine, winter model, clanked up to the back door of German-held Kharkov late last March, and there it stalled as the spring thaws came, turned the front into a swamp. It gave the Germans a chance to get their wind, resume the offensive that led ultimately to the gates of Stalingrad during the summer.

Last week military men watched the slow-down on the 1,600-mile Russian line, wondered if the history of 1942 might repeat. From Leningrad to the Caucasus, armies fought not only each other but the clinging, mucilaginous mud that stopped nearly every mechanical war chariot but the American army jeep.

Stalemate In Burma.

Late last December, while the Americans were beating off the Japs in Guadalcanal and the British were rolling the Germans back along the road to Tripoli, Britain's General Sir Archibald Wavell attacked the Japs in another sector, pushing across the Indian border toward Nipponese strongholds in Burma.

The operation started without fanfare. Last week it appeared to have ended the same way: the British suffered no major defeat but neither did the Japs. But the campaign did not materially weaken the Japs' Burmese position.

The campaign's lack of success hit hardest in China, where military leaders had depended upon a Japanese reversal in Burma to relieve the terrible urgency of war supplies.

Quotes

James A. Farley: Every American must do his utmost to help win the war in the shortest possible time, at the lowest possible cost of life, for the harder we work the sooner will our victory come.

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war: I firmly believe that not until there is imposed on every man and woman the equal obligation to render service in the war effort will this country make the all-out war effort which is necessary and of which we are capable.

In Short

Married: In New Orleans, John Steinbeck, author, playwright, California-divorced 11 days earlier, and Miss Gwyn Conger, of Los Angeles.

Blossom Time: Blooming-time is near for Washington's famous cherry trees, and Mississippi's Rep. Rankin proposes they be known as "Korean" instead of Japanese. Said he: "The Japanese stole them from the Koreans like they stole everything else."

Recovering: From an operation on her right hand following an infection, former U. S. and Wimbledon tennis champion Helen Wills Moody Roark. Doctors' fear: That she may never play tennis again.

Died: In New York, James A. Farrell, 80, up-from-the-ranks president of U. S. Steel Corporation from 1911 until his retirement in 1932.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

FRANK WALKER, our combination Postmaster General and Democratic sub-boss, is back from an inspection of postoffices and Democrats in 10 states.

* * *

He found that the administration has built well and the foundations of both are in good condition.

* * *

There were some complaints that special delivery service from Washington has been reaching Republicans like Stimson and Knox but Walker fixed that up.

* * *

He explained that there were no politics in the administration.

* * *

Frank proposes that the Democrats and Republicans hold off on their '44 campaigns until September or October of '44.

If the idea doesn't appeal to the Republicans he has another one ready—that they hold off their campaign until the day after election.

* * *

This would keep politics out of the election and is a very patriotic thought.

GHOST OF MY LOVE +

By Oren Arnold
(Copyright, 1943)

CHAPTER III

The very first day in Option she had learned how Boyle turned some of his graft. He bought land at $5 an acre—"useless land unfit land even for grazing"—and sold it to Uncle Sam for $300. Also, he gave forged assurance that all necessary building materials were on the ground. He had bought up those materials and shipped them away or stored them. Long, legal measures would be necessary for confiscation if the materials could be found at all, she knew. And confiscation is never a popular thing with the citizens because it breeds worry and fear.

She didn't want to have anything more to do with that past crookedness and profiteering. The original deal had been too close to her own heart back in Washington—another reason why she so thoroughly despised a man. Little Boss had gained some hint of it, back there. He had even made a hurried investigation.

"I never got to meet this Boyle," he reported in his own office. "Anyway I'm sure we could prove nothing on him, now. He'd have kept within the law. A long back-trailing would simply delay the airport, so we'd better take the land as is and go ahead and build. This will give you a chance to go west, too, Rosemary, and get away from your own troublesome boy friend. I don't like to see you unhappy."

Little Boss, who was William St. Clair, had never guessed that Harry Boyle and her "troublesome boy friend" were the same man! Little Boss hadn't even guessed that the other man could be more than a war profiteer; that he was, in reality, a bestial person, vindictive, cruel. Back there, of course, Rosemary couldn't have told him; no more than she could now.

"Well, at least I'm away from Harry," she whispered to herself, here on the main street of Option. "Away forever, I hope. I—I can work out something in time, even though I hate to have to go through—" She didn't phrase the rest of it, the part she now dreaded most of all. She wanted to work here impersonally, as hard as she could.

She decided that the best immediate course was to buy a car. It would be essential out here. As a government girl she could even get a new one, on priority, but she actually did buy a good used model. She would drive it to Lightning; 12,000 population there, the mayor of Option had said. Surely in a town of 12,000 the people would have patriotism and civic pride. But first she'd meet the train, on the off chance that Little Boss returned today.

At 1:59 p. m. she was at the station, running along the slowing Pullmans, looking anxiously in.

"I don't see him," she murmured, fearfully.

Next moment a porter was dropping a stool step one car behind her, then she saw another porter two cars ahead. She saw Little Boss step off. He saw her, too, and hastened to greet her, smiling, beaming.

"Hi!" he acted like an overgrown boy, for all his 31 years. "Didn't expect you to meet me. But I brought you another box of candy, and a new book about the west."

"Gee, Little Boss!" that term slipped out. But he must have known his nickname, from the office at home. She turned to walk with him. "I'm so glad you came today. We've got to go to Lightning, over in Purple Canyon, because the—"

She stopped still, frozen in her tracks.

Harry Boyle had gotten off the other Pullman, and was standing there smirking at her in feigned surprise.

What she saw shocked Rosemary.

Harry Boyle would never dare come here again! But then—

"What is it, Rosemary?" Little Boss asked, kindly. "Is he someone you know?"

She must have been pale. Or the inner tremble must have been evident on her lips. Someone you know!

"Y-yes," she managed. It was no hallucination. It really was Harry Boyle, for no other man on earth had that particular spread-legged stance or that smirk of conceit and amusement.

In the fleeting second or two here, years crowded down on Rosemary. All her world of hope was wrecked as if by a bomb. All that she had run away from back in Washington, all that she yearned to forget, stood here personified again. She knew now that her western trip could hold none of its peace and promise but that she had simply come to a new trap in a new field.

The train began moving—a slow crash, then a quick pickup in speed. White-coated porters nodded or signaled courteously in farewell, and bored people looked out windows. Rosemary saw none of them. Harry Boyle was walking toward her and St. Clair. Walking, slowly, deliberately, eyebrows still arched in surprise.

He took off his hat in mock politeness.

She had no out. Like an automaton, she said, "This is Mr. St. Clair," and saw the two men shaking hands and appraising one another. She didn't mention a second name—or if she did, Bill St. Clair reasoned, the train noise covered it. People do muff introductions like that, he knew.

"How are you?" Bill asked, courteously.

"St. Clair, eh? Well-l-l-l! St. Clair himself!"

"I beg your pardon?" Bill said. The train was roaring clickety-clackety-clack now. But the end of it was nearing.

"St. Clair himself!" Boyle repeated.

"You—you are a citizen of Option, sir?" Bill asked.

"Yes!" Rosemary put that in, desperately. "He—he's here, Little Boss! Mr. St. Clair. He—he—"

"I see. That's fine, Mr. uh—I didn't—"

"He just got off the train, too. He—he—" Rosemary was almost frantic. She didn't want Little Boss to know this was Harry Boyle! She didn't want Harry Boyle here. She didn't want to burst out crying, as she knew she was about to do.

"NEE-E-E-E-A-A-a-a-a-a!"

That loud shrieking noise, a veritable whinny, seemed to come from the last car of the train. All three people turned.

"CA'M DOWN, you sons of satan! WHOA-A-A-A!"

The whinny was no train noise, after all. The train was fading now, but just across the tracks here was a very different commotion. Two mules bearing pack saddles were snorting and twisting and tugging at a tow rope, and a horse was doing its best to unseat an elderly man.

"Oh!" cried Bill St. Clair, involuntarily. "Look out!"

"WHOA-A-A-A!" the old man repeated. He looked comical, trying to cling in a saddle that was too small, but he was in danger, too. He wore no hat, and blond beard and hair sprayed out fantastically.

* * *

"Just take holt of this rope, mister?" the old fellow yelled. "I c'n ride this critter down, but I might lose my mules!"

The scene, then, became a two-ring performance. Bill took the lead rope as directed and the old fellow concentrated on his frightened horse. Bill dug his heels into Option's dirt. Mules dragged him at a jumping run, backing away from the railroad. "Ho-o-o, ho-o-o-o," Bill cooed at them, soothingly.

The old gent did his riding with more picturesque language, but in two minutes or so he had reduced the bucking to a gallop. He circled down the right-of-way, onto main street, and back toward Bill St. Clair with the mules. They were 50 yards or so from Boyle and Rosemary by this time. All three animals were settling down.

"Well-l-l-l-l, darling," Harry Boyle murmured to Rosemary; "you put on a nice western show for me!"

"Oh, why did you come*" she spoke to him for the first time.

"Why? Hear, hear!" Again he showed that cocky, smirking smile.

"I left you back in Washington! You have no right to hound me this way! What are you doing here?"

"My, my, you're all excited! Is it just because I met the famous William St. Clair? Sorry I didn't happen to see him on the train."

"Harry Boyle, I—I"

"Now, now! Still a spitfire, I see. Pretty as ever!"

"Oh-h-h-h-h!" She was too furious, too desperate, to be coherent.

Over yonder near a train water tank, Bill had one mule by the halter and was stroking its nose. The second mule had ceased pulling. The old man was about to get down off his horse.

"Shore am obliged, mister!" Rosemary heard the old fellow say. "These critters don't hardly ever see no railroad train!"

"Is this what you call a stampede?" Bill called, genially.

"A three-piece stampede, I reckon. Two mules and a hoss. They're all I got. Bad as if I had a thousand."

"Don't like civilized noises, eh? Can't blame them much."

"No sir. I'm obliged to you. Mind shaking hands?"

* * *

It was a way Bill St. Clair had. People "took to" him, invariably. His quiet look of distinction plus an inherent friendliness seemed to breed instant trust, high or low. The two men stood there getting acquainted.

Rosemary had seen the action over there even as she talked frantically to Boyle. When she saw Bill look toward her, she spoke hurriedly again, and in guarded tone.

"Harry, you—please keep quiet! Give me time. I don't know what you are doing here, or what you want. But—but—go now. Go on away! I—I'll talk to you later. But don't tell anybody about you and me. Don't—oh, Harry, please don't tell Bill St. Clair!"

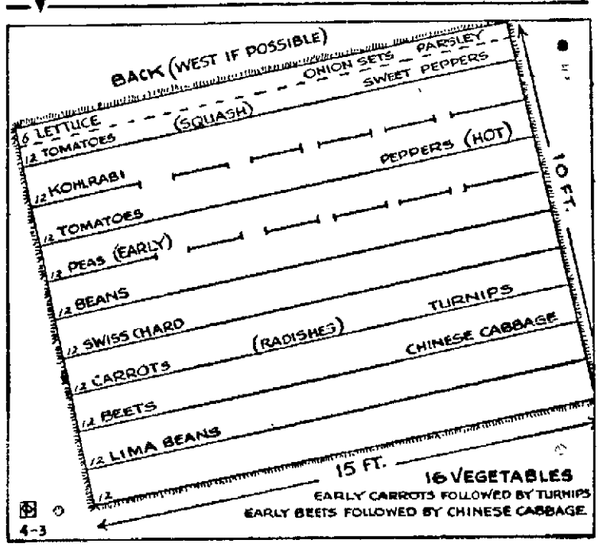
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



A Small, Yet Practical Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Released By Central Press Assn.)

Some readers ask, "What can I do with a small plot of ground?" and "Is it worth while trying to have a Victory garden in a small space?"

A small Victory garden properly planted and properly cared for is, in its own way, just as practical as a large one. As the accompanying Garden-Graph shows, 16 vegetables can be grown in a 10x15 Victory garden.

The small Victory garden, like the large one, must be properly located as well as properly cultivated. Choose a spot receiving sunlight at least three-quarters of the day. Keep away from large trees. Tree roots absorb such large amounts of food and moisture from the soil as to starve out a vegetable garden planted over them.

If the Victory garden is small it requires careful planning and care to make it productive. Study the chart in the accompanying Garden-Graph for it shows what can be done in a garden plot only 10x15 feet in size.

The plants suggested on the broken lines of the chart, lettuce, onions, kohlrabi and peas will be harvested by the time all the space is required for the tomatoes. Swiss chard is suggested in place of spinach since it can be cropped all season. When cutting Swiss chard remove only the outer leaves for by this method the young center will continue to grow and develop. Radishes can be sown thinly with the carrots. Radishes come up quickly and when they are pulled for eating it will break the surface of the soil for the slow growing carrot seedlings.

Turnips and Chinese cabbage, both late crops, can follow early carrots and beets. This should keep the area producing all season.

MANSFIELD BUSINESS IN REVIEW

Home Interiors Features Floor And Wall Covering by Armstrong

Complimentary Service Offered In Home Decoration.

There was a day . . . and not so long ago . . . when American women were not aware of the importance of color in their daily living.

But not so now. Gradually, with increasing courage in expressing their color preferences, they began to do fresh, new things with color, turning drab interiors into symphonies of home decoration.

They started by putting beautiful, brave, gay colors into their kitchens . . . and soon, the first victory won, color swept on from room to room.

In this new use of color they were encouraged and stimulated by American manufacturers who fashioned more and more colorful home furnishings for them to use. Armstrong is one of those pioneer manufacturers who pointed the way, turning that utilitarian material, linoleum, into a joyous creation, obtainable in all the colors of the rainbow.

But Armstrong pioneering went even further! Realizing that the secret of happy, harmonious, room color schemes lay in the correct, pleasing relationship of furnishings used, Armstrong carefully color correlated all Armstrong Linoleums with the prevailing hues of other new home furnishings.

Beauty loving women everywhere are making these enchanting new patterns the basic color notes of their entire room color schemes . . . are installing them in living rooms, dining rooms, bedrooms, rumpus rooms, nurseries, in fact everywhere in all the most livable homes in the country. They are delighted to find that because of Armstrong color correlation it is easy to purchase draperies, slip cover and upholstery fabrics and kitchen accessories in just the right colors to complete their decoration plan.

And of course budget-conscious homemakers are elated to learn that the new installation methods and new built-in features bring them more for their money when they use Armstrong products.

Perhaps you, too, are interested in creating new interest in your home by planning a "never before" room. Mr. Bunsey of Home Interiors, 86 North Main street, will show you how simple it is when you start your redecorating with the floor.

Tell him what kind of a room you are planning to decorate the "Never Before" way . . . a kitchen? a bathroom? an attic bedroom? a basement gameroom? a living room with Empire furnishings? an entrance hall in Colonial style? The more he knows about your ideas the better he can help you.

Perhaps you want an individually designed floor, but aren't quite sure how to go about it? Or maybe you're concerned over the cost of giving a room "Never Before" beauty? Home Interiors will help you select the linoleum which best fits your budget and best carries out your decorating plans, too. They'll show you the wealth of bewitching patterns available in each type of Armstrong linoleum and Linowall and explain their special features.

Speaking of Linowall, they'll show you how the colors of Armstrong's Linoleum are color correlated with Linowall . . . that truly important innovation in wall coverings. They'll tell you how miraculously easy it is to clean and how wonderfully flexible. And they'll explain how this new decorative material can relieve you of the expense and nuisance of having walls repapered or repainted, because it is permanent.

You will also be interested to know that Home Interiors has earned for itself an enviable reputation for installations. It takes special training as well as experience to do the fine work essential to a "Never Before" room . . . To make seams around a sink absolutely water-tight! To fit Linowall around door jambs and wood trim with perfect exactness! To cut floor seams absolutely straight and true! Armstrong has developed new tools and techniques for this fine work. Home Interiors employs trained craftsmen to use them!

GARDEN GUIDE OFFERED FREE BY FIRESTONE

Booklet Covers Entire Program From Planting To Harvesting.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans have vowed to roll up their sleeves and bend their backs to the job of planting a victory garden to help solve our nation's food problem. In support of this back-to-the-soil movement, the Farm Service bureau of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company has published a pocket-size garden guide book which is free to everyone who requests one at the local Firestone store, located at 16 South Mulberry street.

According to W. W. Herman, the book, entitled, "Helpful Informtaion For Growing a Successful Victory Garden," is based on the latest scientific principles of vegetable growing and reflects the Firestone company's 27 years of experience as sponsor of its employes' gardens, one of the largest industrial gardening projects in existence. Last year the company's employes working in gardens provided, ploughed and fertilized for them by the company, produced a total of $63,700 worth of vegetables.

In a brief chapter devoted to the selection of a garden spot, gardeners are told how to apportion planting space according to their needs. A planning and planting chart lists the major vegetable crops and provides complete information of planting dates, on the number of feet of row to be planted with each vegetable for each person, spacing between plants, spacing between rows and the number of days before maturity. There are also instructions for canning, drying and storing vegetables. As a guide to people who are planting their first garden, a complete plan is marked off, row by row, showing when and what vegetables to plant as well as the succession and companion crops that may be planted to insure a large and diversified yield.

The book contains chapters on seed bed preparation, fertilization, watering, weed, insect and disease control, soil improvement and direction for underground storage of vegetables. Victory gardeners may receive without charge, supplementary information on any specific gardening problem by writing directly to the Firestone Farm Service Bureau at Akron, Ohio.

Following the group singing of hymns, refreshments were served by Mrs. Paul Ackerman, Mrs. James Rizer and Mrs. Frank Hauserman. Mrs. O. G. Place was a guest.

Exercise Will Reduce Your Hip, Waistline

MME. QUI VIVE

In middle age the musculature of the body gradually loses the resilience of youth, just as facial contour changes and fine lines appear upon the face. Relaxed muscles give fullness to the mid-section, invite fat cells to make homes for themselves thereon. If a woman were to start early enough to make daily exercise a habit, she would stave off these conditions, for a time at least. Work keeps muscles strong; indolence weakens them. No doubt, in the future there will be greater interest in physical education, just as there is now a greater general interest in nutrition than there was even ten years ago.

Desk workers and chronic sitters are inclined to spread. A brisk walk every day would stop expansion, ten minutes of stretching and bending exercises would tend to keep fibers in fair condition. Yes we know all the old excuses. They're tired! They haven't time! Women find time for hair and complexion care. Why not make every effort to retain the youthful silhouette? A fine figure is a wonderful asset.

When the tape measure shows that waist and hips are larger, one should act quickly. Those extra inches won't evaporate through wishing. They have to be worked off by muscular activity and restricting the appetite.

It is possible to roll the bumps away. Lie on the back on the floor. Extend the arms out on a line with the shoulders. Lift the right arm and the right leg as high as you can, roll to the left, stretching arms and legs, touching the floor with the fingers and toes. Five times to the left, five times to the right and repeat. This exercise is also helpful for reducing thickened thighs.

The brisker the movements, the more effective they are. At first, if unaccustomed to exercise, you may feel awkward and clumsy. But keep right on. When fatigued, stop, relax, take several deep slow breaths.

The exercise is not particularly exhausting, so is suitable for women who are active all day.

Here is another one, not quite so easy, but extremely effective.

Get down on hands and knees. Grasp the left ankle with the left hand. Bringing the left knee forward and lower the head in an endeavor to come in contact with it. Back to first position and repeat.

Still on hands and knees, ankle grasped by the left hand, Pull the left foot and leg upward and backward, at the same time thrusting the neck and chest forward This acts on the muscles that extend from waist line to thighs.

Exercise is good fun when you really knuckle down to it. Makes blood streams romp and play.

In the Easter Parade

ON THE AVENUE: The hit style of the big parade, as predicted by the New York Dress Institute. It is one of the important new soft suits in that brand new wonder-fabric, rayon tussah, soft and rich as the heaviest tie-silk of pre-war days. This one is gray and white plaid, the slim skirt topped by a vest-type jacket with slit pockets and high revers, piped in navy blue. New also are the white crepe bow-tie gilet and the rough white straw fedora with navy band and veil. Look for the new short weskit jacket with V-line front when you do your Easter shopping.

Nature Club Has Monthly Meet to Elect Officers

A hike has been planned for April 17 at 1:45 p. m. Anyone wishing to attend at that time, will please contact Mrs. H. N. Spandau.

WITH MRS. CASPERSON.

The Rainbow Advisory board meeting has been postponed from Tuesday, April 6, to Monday, April 12, at the home of Mrs. Margaret Casperson, 500 Crescent road, at 7:30 p. m.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, April 4.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a most propitious one for all public, social, affectional and cultural activities and aspirations. The pursuit of these may unfold sudden and dramatic aspects, as gratifying as unexpected. There might be gift or bequest, but in legal affairs be alert.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a very progressive and productive year, with a sudden advancement or public recognition, or substantial token of esteem. Social, domestic and affectional relations give much pleasure.

A child born on this day may have unusual talents, with much originality and creative ability, which should assure public esteem.

For Monday, April 5.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a moderately lively state of affairs, in both public, business and private life, but it is not certain that there will be great progress or profit by the outlay of even mediocre efforts. A native tendency to exaggerate and squander may lead to loss.

Those whose birthday it is may find affairs moving along at moderate tempo, but not with any particular profit or success.

A child born on this day while having energy and talent may defeat itself by over-indulgences of a personal as well as business nature. Thrift, prudence and care with associates are advised.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Olga's eyes were starry with emotion, and I knew her gracious nature understood the generous gesture, with its crucifixion of feminine pride, which Mary had made for the sake of Olina.

"I never can repay her," Olga said, then added thoughtfully, "I wonder if Olina guessed."

"She never must guess," I said, "that Mary staged that scene because of her. But if she finds out that Mary gave that exhibition in order to disgust Georges, she must be made to believe that Mary did it because she dreaded another series of jealous scenes with Noel such as he had just staged over Stephen Redfield, and that while she knew Georges was not sincere, she was afraid he might be mischief-loving enough to badger Noel by pretending an interest in herself."

Both Philip Veritzen and Dicky leaned forward in their chairs and clapped their hands vigorously.

"Bravo, also brava and bravura," Dicky said. "I didn't know you had it in you. That ought to be an explanation to end all explanations."

"Most ingenious," Philip Veritzen said, but his wife took me into her arms as I rose to meet her.

Olga Grateful.

"You have found a way to spare my darling's pride," she said, "and I am so grateful!" Then, still holding me, she put another question.

"If Olina speaks to me about it, may I send her to you? I will tell her that you understand Mary's psychology better than anybody; better, I am sure, than does her husband."

"That, undoubtedly," Noel's father said with a wry smile.

"Of course you may send her to me," I told Olga. "And now I must crave your favor. Father asked me to give Mary a message before she left, and I did not have a chance. Will you excuse us if we leave you now? Then I will stop on my way down and give her the message."

"I would wish you to stay indefinitely," Olga said smiling, "but I have no more questions to ask, so if you feel that you really must go, I won't keep you."

"Speak for yourself, woman," Dicky said to me. "This is a good fire, with good company before it. I don't want to go home. But I know one doesn't forget your father's mandates with impunity. So come along."

Will Georges Suspect?

As we waited for the elevator, after taking our leave, Dicky cautiously looked around and said in a low voice:

"D'ye think Olina will swallow that yarn? And isn't there a chance Georges may get to thinking things over and wondering why for and what the hell?"

"I can't answer another question tonight," I told him ruefully. "In the first place I don't know the answers, and in the second I'm terribly tired."

"Okay, Sweet!" he said. "But is it on the free list to ask what the dad wants you to tell Mary?"

"Oh, surely," I answered. "He simply wants me to tell her to be ready at eight o'clock this morning for me to come over and stage that accident to her."

"Will you want any help in crippling her?" Dicky asked, grinning. "I'm a good strong arm man."

"No, thank you," I told him, and then the elevator came and we went down.

Mary answered the door and I told her my errand quickly. As I turned to go, I heard Dicky say "How about it, Brat? How's the husband taking it?"

THEATERS

Hitchcock Thriller.

"Shadow of a Doubt," Alfred Hitchcock's latest drama, opens today at the Madison. Starring Teresa Wright and John Cotten, the film is said to contain all the sustained excitement of former Hitchcock thrillers. The story concerns a notorious fugitive killer who hides-out incognito with distant relatives. They are totally unaware of his criminal record. Miss Wright has the role of the murderer's niece. The performance is said to be one of her best although sharply contrasted with her work in "Mrs. Miniver," and "Pride of the Yankees." Second picture is "Hi'ya Chum," starring the Ritz brothers.

Bob-Bing-Dot.

Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, and Dorothy Lamour team up once again "Road to Morocco," starting tomorrow at the Ritz. Said to be one of the funniest films in a decade, the picture deals with two men (Hope and Crosby) lost on the coast of Morocco. Miss Lamour, as the Princess Shalmar, buys Bob from Bing for $200 She's engaged to Sheik Anthony Quinn, but since it is decreed by the stars that her first husband is to die a violent death, Bob is chosen as the number one hubby. Milton Berle and Mary Beth Hughes co-star in the second attraction, "Over My Dead Body."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

PRINCIPLE IS EXTENDED

IT IS PRACTICALLY as risky to support your partner's singly rebid suit, when you hold only two cards of it, as to raise his once-bid suit with only three cards. In either case you take a chance of finding your side possessing only seven trumps and the defenders six, which are very likely to be badly divided against you. Be it repeated, as a general proposition a trump suit is dangerous if your opponents hold more than five cards of it.

	♠ J 10 8 7 3 2 ♥ K J ♦ Q 5 2 ♣ A 2
♠ K Q 6 ♥ 6 2 ♦ A 9 ♣ J 9 8 6 5 3	N W E S	♠ 9 5 ♥ Q 9 7 5 ♦ K J 10 7 6 4 3 ♣ None
	♠ A 4 ♥ A 10 8 4 3 ♦ 8 ♣ K Q 10 7 4

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 ♥
2 ♣	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥

East ruffed the club lead, and after a risky low card to the diamond A put West in again, a second ruff was scored in clubs. The sure spade trick a bit later beat the contract.

South was peeved at his partner for raising his suit with only two cards of it, when his rebid only indicated possession of five. He told North that the latter's correct bid on his second turn was 3 Spades. After that, South said, he would have bid 4 Spades But wouldn't that have amounted to the same thing? The single rebid would have shown only a five-card length and the fact that North actually had six could not have been guessed soundly by South.

As the post-mortem also developed, 4-Spades could have been set, no matter what the declarer did, if East led a diamond and West had enough perspicacity to take his A, then return a club for a ruff. Two trump tricks for West later on would have settled the hash of that contract. Of course the ruffs would have done the damage to both contracts, but then the danger of those was pretty well indicated by the freakish-sounding bidding, with each player showing a suit, including East's psychic opener.

Your Week-End Lesson.

If nobody had bid hearts, and West leads the 4 against South's contract of 4-Spades, how can the Rule of Eleven tell East exactly what to do on the trick when he sees the J-6-5 in the dummy and holds the K-9-8 himself?

Marion A. Porch informs me there are a number of petitions around the town asking that Ohio be placed in the intermediate zone for duck hunting, instead of the northern zone in which it is now classified.

And he hands me a copy of Harding's Magazine in which an article by Ben C. Robinson urges Ohio sportsmen to back the move for the change to intermediate zone.

All of which, of course, is for the purpose of giving Ohio hunters the right to shoot during the state's natural duck hunting season.

Sportsmen here know that the duck hunting season is over just as the ducks really begin passing over the scattered small lakes in this section. And they must feel cheated as they file their duck hunting paraphernalia away and watch the flights wing their way southward.

* * *

Petitions drawn in Mansfield, or Richland county, or even throughout Ohio, won't do any good unless the petitioners follow them through to ultimate decision. They go through so many hands they can be lost unless the petitioners push them along.

* * *

I understand the Tappan bowling league held its banquet last night, although for all the information passed along to this department on the event it is still a deep, dark secret, but not military.

It marked the opening of the season in the keglers' knife and fork league, which may find those utensils discarded for glasses and mugs and things, due to food rationing.

High prices per plate, and lack of enthusiasm by caterers, who do not care to take the worry of finding food for big banquets have caused some of the leagues to consider other ways of celebrating the end of their campaign.

Westinghouse keglerettes may find their averages climbing during the next month as they double their activities on the alleys.

Westie women, checking over the schedule for their big 18-team league the other evening, discovered they'd be bowling into June to complete their present round.

* * *

So they made arrangements to bowl twice a week starting next week. All 18 teams will roll on their regular league night, Monday, while 12 teams will bowl on Tuesday and six on Thursday at 8:30 in the speed-up program.

Reds Open Spring Exhibition Sked

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — (AP) — Cincinnati's rarin'-to-go Rhinelanders invaded Louisville today for the opening of the spring exhibition schedule with a two-game series against the Chicago White Sox. Ray Starr is slated for hill duty for the first five innings and Manager Bill McKechnie indicated Fireman Joe Beggs would finish the game.

Johnny Vander Meer, the double no-hitter, is expected to receive the mound call tomorrow.

* * *

McKechnie named Heinie Mueller for backstopping chores today, Frank McCormick on first; Lonnie Frey, Eddie Miller and Bert Haas at the other infield posts with Max Marshall, Mike McCormick and probably Eric Tipton in the outer gardens. There is a possibility Frank Kelleher will receive the left field call over Tipton.

Gerald Walker is expected to join the club in Louisville late today with his return to the fold after a hold out siege.

MUSTO KNOCKED OUT BY ARMY FIGHTER

TAMPA, Fla. —(INS)— Tony Musto of Chicago slid farther down the fight ladder today after losing by a technical knockout to Tommy Gomez, army heavyweight stationed at Camp Van Dorn, Miss.

The bout last night was stopped at 49 seconds of the first round after Musto kissed the canvas twice under a barrage of left and right hooks.

Gomez weighed 185 pounds, Musto 197.

Del Baker Happy In Tribe Job

Hank Edwards Draft Status Remains 3-A.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

MUNCIE, Ind. — (AP) — Del Baker's switch in baseball jobs, from manager of the Detroit Tigers to a Cleveland coaching berth, was a happy conversion—for Del Baker.

While many might consider the change a bad break, Baker, who piloted the Tigers from 1938 through the 1942 season, says he is completely satisfied and happy in his new duties as coach of the Indians, who are in training here.

* * *

"I'm happy in my new job," Baker said, "and perhaps I would have to think twice before accepting another position as a manager. Why, the other night I played some pool with the boys. Hadn't held a cue in about 20 years. Just shows how much time I have to enjoy myself. It's a great feeling. Yes, maybe life is just beginning for me."

* * *

Baker, for years a Detroit catcher, emphasized that he had no ill feelings about losing his managerial post. "President Walter Briggs always treated me swell and I have a lot of respect for him," he said.

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager, is quick to praise the steel-haired Baker as a valuable acquisition.

"You ought to see what he's doing with Pitcher Al Milnar," exclaimed the 25-year-old skipper. "Milnar always had a hesitation in his wind-up and it even got so bad the batters could tell what he was going to throw. Well, Baker has been working on him all spring. Now he's windmilling the ball without a hitch. He may win a lot of games for us this season. Baker deserves all the credit, although he won't admit it."

Heartened by assurance of a complete outfield with Hank Edwards' renewed 3-A draft status, the Indians meet the Pittsburgh Pirates today in the first game of a two-day series, their first professional competition in this season's northern training routine.

* * *

Quadrangular Golf Match Scheduled

COLUMBUS—(INS)—In a move to curtail travel but at the same time still retain golf relations with Indiana, Purdue and Illinois, the Ohio State links team will engage in a quadrangular meet with these three schools at Indianapolis Saturday, April 24, it was announced today.

* * *

Bob Kepler, Ohio State golf coach, said the Buckeyes also are booked to meet Northwestern and Minnesota in a triangular affair at Chicago Saturday, May 15, in a tuneup for the Big Ten matches which will be played in the loop city, May 17 and 18.

* * *

The Buck linksters also will meet the alumni, April 11; Michigan, April 17; Michigan State May 1; Detroit at Detroit, May 8; and Michigan at Ann Arbor, May 10.

DOGGED BY FLU

FRENCH LICK, Ind. — (AP) — Chicago's White Sox, who travel to Louisville today for the first of a two-game series with the Cincinnati Reds, still are dogged by the flu. Two of the victims, Thornton Lee and Jim Webb, have had relapses and have been joined by Tom Turner. All three are now under observation. The Sox will play George Air Field near Vincennes, Ind., next Thursday.

From the Minors

KEN SEARS, big catcher being given another trial with the New York Yankees this year, was purchased from Newark in 1941 and then sent to Kansas City where he batted .280 in 1942. Sears, son of National League Umpire Ziggy Sears, is a left-handed batter, throws right.

DOROTHY KIRBY COPS NORTH-SOUTH CROWN

PINEHURST, N. C. —(INS)— The crown in the North-South Women's Golf tournament rested on the comely head of Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta.

Miss Kirby won the title by defeating Jane Crum, Orangeburg, S. C., five and three in the 18-hole finals.

The Georgia sharp-shooter was two strokes under par when she ended the match on the 15th green with a birdie four to Miss Crum's par 5.

Tale of Woe Told By Texas Coach

CANYON, Tex. —(AP)— You might nominate Windy Nicklaus as the hard luck coach of them all and expect to meet little argument.

Here's the tale of woe:

Nicklaus turned out two State championship teams at Amarillo Junior college only to have the school drop foot ball.

Ditto at Altus, Okla., Junior college.

Oklahoma Baptist quit after Windy had given that school its first conference title.

Then he went to Borger high school, but he left last spring to become assistant coach at West Texas state here.

So, the other day West Texas decided to abandon all athletics for the duration.

Dykes Depends On Jockeys

But White Sox Also Have Hurling Staff.

By LEO H. PETERSON

NEW YORK — (UP) — Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, believes his "holler guys" might be contenders for the American league pennant this year.

He realizes he is short of hitting, but hopes to make that up with reliable pitching and a tight defense. In addition, he explains:

* * *

"We always could holler and bulldoze some of those clubs out of a game. And we've got some of the best jockies on the White Sox you ever saw."

His main problems are the outfield, for which he has only one member of last year's regular trio back, and two southpaw pitchers—Thornton Lee and Edgar Smith, if Lee, hampered by injuries in 1942 and Smith, who in losing 20 games last season got all the bad breaks in the book, can come back to their winning ways of 1941 the White Sox may have one of the most formidable hurling staffs in the circuit.

A lot also depends upon the success of Moose Solters' comeback. The once-hard-hitting outfielder was out of the game last year, but has been clouting the ball well in spring training and Dykes is counting on him for a regular berth.

Wally Moses will hold down one of the other outfield positions with a rookie getting the call for the other. The leading candidates are Ralph Hodgkin, who hit .320 for San Francisco; Thurman Tucker, a .345 clubber with Fort Worth, and Frank Kalin, up from Hollywood where he hit .304.

* * *

The infield will have three veterans—Joe Kuhel at first, Don Kollaway at second and the veteran Luke Appling at short. A rookie, Jimmy Grant, who hit .318 with St. Paul last year, has been getting the call at third base. Jimmy Webb, a holdover, and Dick Culler, another St. Paul graduate, probably will land the utility posts.

* * *

Mike Tresh will handle the major share of the catching again with Tommy Turner the No. 2 receiver.

In addition to Lee and Smith, Dykes has six other holdover pitchers — Bill Dietrich, Orvall Grove, Joe Haynes, John Humphries, Lee Ross and Jake Wade.

JOE GORDON ARRIVES IN YANKEE CAMP

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—(INS)—With the arrival of Infielder Joe Gordon, flying in from Oregon, the New York Yankees, for the first time since their spring training started, found all eligibles in camp today, except suspended Frankie Crosetti. It was the first time that Gordon had donned a uniform this season, and the Yanks enthusiastically awaited their first exhibition game of the year with the Newark Bears today at Plainfield.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The National pro football league will start a three-day meeting in Chicago Tuesday to decide what's what for next fall. . . . Three or four clubs have hinted that they'd like to suspend for the duration but Prexy Jack Mara of the Giants figures if the others vote to play, the lukewarm gents will string along with them. Otherwise the word is the franchises likely will be "frozen" and the remaining players distributed among the other clubs.

OPTIMISTIC NOTE.

Still quoting Mara: "From what we have heard, there will be a good many football players next fall—boys in the various reserves who don't expect to be called until December or January and those who have been deferred. . . . As long as we can get 11 men (maybe just a few more, eh, Jack?) and the other guys can get 11 there'll be football at the Polo Grounds. . . . Maybe we'll have to put a call out before the games and get some of those old All-Americans or Monday morning quarterbacks in the stands to come and help us."

CHANGING THE SUBJECT.

The Indians claim that Pitcher Joe Heving is the only grandfather still active in the big leagues. . . . John Wiethe, the oversized ump who used to be a pro footballer, has retired as an American association arbiter to devote all his time to his law practice.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Jimmy Murphy, Canton, Ill., Daily Ledger: "Pitcher George Munger of the Cardinals is a chicken pox patient and Eddie Lake, Red Sox infielder, is suffering from measles. . . . And we thought there'd be no kids in baseball this year."

SERVICE DEPT.

Lieut. Matt Tischler, former Illinois athlete now athletic officer at the Army Air Force gunnery camp at Apalachicola, Fla., figures it's an aid to morale to have the obstacle course end right at the door of the hospital. . . . He claims the soldiers are thrilled to be able to complete the course and walk the other way instead of being carried through the door.

GEE WALKER ENDS CINCINNATI HOLDOUT

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—(INS)—Cincinnati's lone holdout, Gerald Walker, was in the Red's fold today. "Gee" announced in Orlando, Fla., he had signed his contract and that his 13th season in the major leagues would see him playing in Cincinnati's outfield.

Shortstop Charles Brewster, with Nashville in the Southern association last year, has been rejected for military services and will soon report to Manager Bill McKechnie.

Buckeyes Lead In Swim Meet

Bill Smith, Frank Dempsey Cop Titles.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Ohio State, pointing for a clean sweep of national swimming honors, lead the field into the final round of the annual National A. A. U. swimming championships at the New York Athletic club tonight with a total of 24 points, nine better than runner-up University of Michigan.

The Buckeyes totaled two firsts, two seconds, two thirds, and a fourth as dark-horse Michigan, by a surprise victory in last night's final event—the 400-yard freestyle relay—headed into the homestretch in second place. The Wolverines notched one first, two thirds and a fourth.

* * *

The four champions were divided between Ohio State and Rutgers, each placing two men among the titleholders.

Bill Smith and Frank Dempsey of Ohio State triumphed in the 220-yard freestyle and one-meter dive respectively while Charles Gantner and Norman Siegal of Rutgers, won the 220-yard breaststroke and 300-yard individual medley.

Smith, one of the Buckeyes' two Hawaiian stars, churned the water in 2:09.6, 11-5 seconds better than the pool record set in 1935 by Jack Medica to win the 220-yard freestyle, first event on the program, by four yards over Alan Ford of Yale. Keo Nakama, other Ohio State Hawaiian ace, came in third ahead of John Patten of Michigan.

Gantner brought Rutgers, which finished third in the first half's point standings with 10, its first title by winning the 220-yard breaststroke in 2:42.4.

Dempsey won the one-meter dive for the Buckeyes with a score of 136.22 as teammate Charles Batterman registered 128.94 for second. Gil Evans of Michigan wound up third with 116.44 to edge out James Strong of Ohio State, who had 116.36.

* * *

Michigan's quartet of Merton Church, Harry Holiday, Charles Fries, jr., and Jack Patten won the 400-yard freestyle relay in 3:34.9 as the A squad of Ohio State finished second, three yards behind.

Yale was third and the Buckeye's B team, fourth.

SIEBERT THROWS AWAY DEMOUNTABLE KNEES

WILMINGTON, Del.—(INS)—First Baseman Dick Siebert of the Athletics decided today his own two legs were plenty good enough to stand on without additional support and threw away the demountable knees which have seen him through the past five seasons.

"They're more trouble than they're worth," he explained. "They just slow you up and remind you that you've got a bum leg."

Last season, with the aid of the braces, Siebert saw action in 153 games.

GOOFY GETS CHANCE ON NEW DELIVERY

WALLINGFORD, Conn.—(AP)—Lefty Gomez, former New York Yankee hurler now with the Boston Braves, gets a chance to try his new delivery today in a six-inning camp contest.

Gomez has been experimenting with a windup that starts with his arm far back and ends with him throwing his pitch overhand. He has had considerable success with it in the indoor drills.

Kate Stirtzinger Has High B-League Total.

BUYS SHORTSTOP

HERSHEY, Pa. — (AP) — Owner Bill Cox of the Philadelphia Phillies says purchase of Shortstop Garton Del Savio from Cincinnati is just a starter in his efforts to rebuild the infield and that he expects at least one more infielder, possibly two, soon.

SCRIBES BARRED

LAKEWOOD, N. J. — (AP) — The New York Giants and the Jersey City Giants tangle in an exhibition game today but the site is a military secret. Newspapermen have been barred from seeing the game and the location is defined only as an eastern army camp.

MEDFORD, Mass. — (AP) — A rookie, Al Olsen, of Sacramento, and a veteran, Mace Brown, will follow Tex Hughson to the mound today for the Boston Red Sox battle with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field.

Fans Boo Verdict For Jack

Armstrong Captures Fancy of Fight Bugs.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Last night's defeat was, in its way, another glorious victory for Henry Armstrong.

The "three blind mice" who officiated at the 10-round non-title bount between Hurricane Hank and Lightweight Champion Beau Jack, awarded young Jack an unanimous decision.

But their verdict touched off an explosion of booing among the sell-out crowd of 19,986 cash customers that shook Madison Square Garden's girders, which was followed by a grand ovation for the officially vanquished Armstrong.

* * *

These manifestations in the house that Rickard built virtually clinched a title fight for Armstrong with young Beau Jack this summer. Such an outdoor meeting doubtless would draw more than a half-million dollars.

Last night's encounter, in which Armstrong was the 2-1 underdog, drew $104,976 — largest indoor gate for less than heavyweights in a decade.

More than 5,000 fans were turned away from this brawl in which 30-year-old Armstrong battled his former pupil, 22-year-old Beau Jack.

Armstrong of Los Angeles, who formerly wore the feather, lightweight and welter crowns simultaneously, took a licking in the early rounds of this climax fight on his come-back trail. But Hammering Henry rallied so magnificently in the closing sessions that it seemed the 19th fight of his come-back string would result in victory.

However, the unanimous decision was against the perpetual motion man, who was making his first appearance in New York since he was knocked out by Fritzie Zivic in January, 1941, in this same Garden ring.

* * *

There were no knockdowns, but Beau Jack was rubber-legged and on the verge of a kayo in the sixth round, in which Henry had him staggering.

Louie Haley Hits String of 659 Pins

Louie Haley hit a hot streak in the Mixed Doubles bowling league last night with a 695 series on games of 246-210-203, and paired with Margaret Baker for top honors with an 1142 count.

Mary McMullen led the women with a 511 string.

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

Birds are among the most energetic of all creatures. The chimney swift sets a fast pace of physical exertion that tops even the hardest working man. He is on the wing a full 19 hours out of every 24.

* * *

Contrary to popular impression, barnacles do not sit on a rock or ship bottom all their lives. In their youth they are fragile creatures that swim about freely at the mercy of tides and waves. After a time they settle on some rock or shell and cement themselves firmly by the head; then never voluntarily move from the chosen spot.

* * *

The moon apparently moves its own width westward in the sky every two minutes. Watch it sometime and time it.

* * *

Sometimes finicky fish that turn up their noses at conventional lures, go plumb daffy over something of a different twist or color. That's why we suggest that you add a few of the newer lures to your collection of old standbys, before you start out this spring. Yuncker's still offer a complete selection of all the favorite fish-getters.

* * *

Many say that of all the dumb animals, the moose is the "dumbest." It sometimes stands with its head behind a tree, and believes it is completely concealed.

* * *

Since our war efforts have seriously weakened the highly efficient fire suppression organizations, through depletion of man power, its up to every real sportsman, now, to guard against woods fires caused by carelessness.

Who Said Horse and Buggy Days Are Here?

INDUSTRIALS REMAIN IN BACKGROUND

Few Rails and Utilities Go Up Fractionally During Early Trading.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A few rails and utilities advanced fractionally in today's early stock market proceedings but many industrials remained in the background.

Improved at an active opening were Glenn Martin and Yellow Truck. Declines were posted for American Telephone, Pullman, Youngstown Sheet, Republic Steel, Kennecott and International Harvester.

Boardrooms noted the compilation of the regional shippers' advisory boards estimating railway freight traffic in the current quarter would total 9,170,439 cars, an increase of 2.5 per cent over the like 1942 months.

that base, one of the outposts guarding the enemy's great naval stronghold at Truk.

The Japanese do not seem intent on seeking further territorial gains at this time. They apparently are concentrating on consolidation of conquered territory and development of their resources.

Meanwhile, the Japanese continued to suffer today under punishing but scattered Allied air attacks and admitted the Chinese were waging offensive war against their invading forces on land.

The air attacks ranged from a foray against enemy shipping by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers in the Southwest Pacific to the regular blows delivered by the British at occupied points in Burma.

MacArthur's communique said two ships probably were hit late Thursday when bombers caught 13 enemy warcraft and merchantmen at anchor off the harbor of Kavieng, on the northern end of New Ireland above New Guinea. Purpose of the raid appeared to be disruption of links in Japanese supply lines. Other U. S. planes attacked Japanese positions along the northeast New Guinea coast.

RAF Blenheims struck the Kanbula junction in Burma north of Shwebo and fended off a Japanese raid on Maungdaw, within British lines in Burma north of Akyab.

Air officers at the Alaskan defense command said at least 20 freight car loads of bombs showered on Japanese camps in the Aleutians last month. As many as 72 planes took part in some raids, pouring 17,000 bombs at a four-square-mile area at Kiska.

Brig. Gen. Ramey Missing In Action

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — (U.P.) — Brig. Gen. Howard K. Ramey, 47, commander of the Fifth bomber force, is missing in action, a communique said today.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that Ramey's plane failed to return from a mission over New Guinea. His crew also is missing.

Ramey, who was from Fresno Cal., is the sixth high ranking officer set down on the casualty list in the southwest Pacific since the war started. One of the others was killed, one is missing and three were grounded.

Ramey took over the Fifth bomber command in January.

PIG LOSS BIG

Specialist Says 17 Per Cent Die In First 3 Days.

FINDLAY (INS) — The great loss in potential pork by the high death rate in baby pigs was explained recently to Hancock county farmers by Howard Davison, swine specialist at Ohio State university, during a series of meetings for hog raisers.

Figures compiled from a national pig survey, according to Davison, show that out of 140,000,000 pigs farrowed in 1942, 36,000,000 died before reaching market. Of this number 17 per cent died before the age of three days and 29 per cent before six weeks of age.

Davison stressed sanitation and roomy farrowing quarters as a great preventative in this vast loss of pork and urges vaccination in proper hands as a preventative against hog cholera.

Losses from hog cholera in 1942 wasted enough pork to supply 1,000,000 soldiers in the U. S. armed forces, Davison said.

BIGGEST OHIO EXPENSE BILL PASSAGE DUE

in the basic school foundation law which allocates funds to schools on the basis of average daily attendance, $300,000 was set aside to reimburse schools for losses they would suffer by excusing pupils for part-time work in the fields during planting and harvesting seasons. School interests had demanded a change in the basis of payments to that of net enrollment.

Altogether the school appropriation will total $97,232,662, several thousand dollars below the ceiling set by Governor Bricker within which distribution of the funds might be arranged by the legislature.

Another new feature of the bill would allocate $500,000 a year to township trustees, earmarked for road maintenance. Townships had brought great pressure upon the legislature to earmark the one-cent liquid fuel tax revenue to them instead of the general fund, citing the decline in gasoline tax revenues directed to road maintenance.

In 1943 there will be an outright grant of $500,000 to the townships; from the general revenue fund; but in 1944 the fund must come from balances in gasoline tax revenues from 1943, if any, and from the same source during the current year 1944.

The state treasurer would be given authority to invest "additions and betterments" funds of any department in war bonds until such time as building materials permit resumption of a state construction program.

The bill also would grant $44,000 a year to county agricultural societies each year—$500 to each county—for the promotion of agricultural production. This appeared to represent a compromise proposal designed to head off a bill introduced in the legislature to give each county agricultural society $1,000 a year.

HIT PROBLEMS ON RATIONING

Meat Point Hoarding and Grade Labeling of Canned Goods Create Difficulties.

no opposition to grading their products according to government standards but wish to preserve brands which they have popularized over the years, Brown reconsidered the entire problem.

Both the CIO and the American Federation of Labor have taken a definite stand on the question of labeling with President William Green of the AFL giving Brown the warning that "one more reversal of basic OPA policy, and the public confidence in the government's price and rationing program will be completely shattered." Green and other labor leaders are insisting that grade labeling is necessary under rationing to safeguard consumers against inferior brands.

The issue precipitated the latest of the inner convulsions which have taken place in OPA since Brown took office three months ago. It centers about an order which gave to Lou R. Maxon, chief OPA information officer, virtually unlimited power to change all agency regulations, field instructions and other moves which he deemed contrary to the best interests of the public or to the future of OPA.

Maxon would have been authorized to represent Brown in final policy decisions — such as grade labeling — in which there was a difference of opinion among other OPA deputy administrators. The order had the effect of making Maxon the No. 2 man of OPA and it drew vigorous opposition from within the agency.

It was issued an hour after the OPA labor policy committee had demanded that Brown fire Maxon. The group charged that Maxon, head of a Detroit advertising agency, was using his public office to further private interests and private views.

Brown reaffirmed his confidence in Maxon in a statement disclosing that he had revised the original order to deprive Maxon of powers to make final policy decisions when they are in dispute. He will retain this power.

LEWIS URGING WAGE SUBSIDY

Would Have Taxpayers Foot Bill For Increase In Miners' Pay.

the operators' reply to the union, said the $2 a day increase was "only the beginning" of the union demands.

Other demands, including payment of wages from the time the miner enters the mine until he leaves, changes in vacation pay, and changes in various practices that have been in operation for many years, would, if granted, amount to $5.25 a day in excess of what the mine worker is now earning, he said.

Taggart said the average wage of anthracite employes is now $2,212 a year and that the increases asked for would bring this up to $3,853.

Lewis, at present, is attempting to negotiate a new wage contract for not only the 90,000 hard coal miners but the 150,000 soft coal miners as well.

The sessions with the bituminous operators have been recessed until 10 o'clock Monday morning and those with the anthracite operators until 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Lewis, while negotiating with the soft coal operators, causing a mild sensation when he charged, in a statement dictated to newspaper men, that the federal government is sending military intelligence agents into the mining districts to intimidate union men "with the implied suggestion that a second military front is to be established in the coal fields."

He said the miners "deeply resent" the suggestion they may be forced to "work at the point of the bayonet" in the event they fail to reach an agreement with their employers.

Major General H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command, which includes Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, was quoted in advices from Chicago as saying Lewis' accusation was an "impossibility," since no military intelligence had any opportunity to use tactics of intimidation.

RETURN BLOW

Winter Leaves Inch and a Half Of Snow Over Night.

Sneaking back with a "sucker punch" after a week of spring-like sunshine, Old Man Winter yesterday evening blanketed Mansfield with an inch and a half of snow, tumbled temperature to 21 above zero and today threatened to remain here in a freezing attitude over the week-end.

Winter struck with some fury about 4 p. m. Friday but a strong wind prevented serious traffic difficulty as the dry snow was swept from pavements. Motor traffic was slowed down during the night but no major mishaps were reported.

Ohio's forecaster promised continued cold today with freezing temperature, fresh winds and a few snow flurries.

FORMER SYMPHONY VIOLINIST ORGANIZES GREAT ARMY BAND

SOMEWHERE IN ALASKA — (INS)—Up here they call it Pat's band. It has an official moniker a mile long but every one knows that Elliott Paturzo, formerly first violinist in the Detroit symphony and one-time member of Russ Morgan's band, is the guiding genius behind a musical organization that will some day tour America.

Paturzo, who knows a good thing when he hears it, says he intends to hold the band together and make a nationwide tour when the war is over. "And believe it or not," he smiles proudly, "fourteen members of the band had never played a horn when they started out with me a few months ago."

Ralliston Derr, Red Cross recreation director, says Pat's band is "the biggest uplifter of spirit" in the Aleutians. The bandsmen give full time to their work. Rehearsals are held daily from 9 to 5, with time out for lunch. Almost every night of the week there is a concert, given in a mess hall or recreation center.

Pat's band can play anything—swing, military marches, popular numbers, symphony, and just to show that the rehearsals are not all horseplay the bandsters will occasionally render a classical number.

Organized two years ago the group did not play as a full time band until it came to Alaska eight months ago. All the boys are from Paturzo's home town—Detroit.

"It may sound strange, but I don't think this band could have been developed anywhere else," says Paturzo. "I don't think it would have functioned nearly so well in the United States. Up here the boys feel their responsibility keenly. They are putting their hearts into it. They know they are bringing cheer to a bleak land. That is why they play so well."

For variation, the band features Lee Dekich, a clarinetist, in comedy readings and master-of-ceremony nonsense.

Eddie Barrow, the arranger, has been associated with several top-notch bands in the United States. Johnnie Ursulesca once played the viola with the Michigan symphony. Staff Sgt. Albert Steger played bass fiddle in the Detroit symphony.

But most of the band members have never had any professional experience.

"They will have that when the war's over," Paturzo winks. "That is, if they can play elsewhere as they play here in the Aleutians."

Don't Run, Tommy, I Only Want to Play!

Friendly deer, frightened boy make this scene on opening day at the Children's zoo in the Bronx zoo, New York, where baby and pet animals are shown in story book houses and children are permitted to play with them. Little Tommy Jurkoski, only two-and-a-half years old, didn't know that this bright-eyed deer only wanted petting, so he started to run when deer came after him.
